Navy Reports New Attacks on Kiska and Other Enemy Bases

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—A daring night bomber attack on a small group of light Japanese naval vessels caught on the move in the Central Solomon Islands was reported by the navy today along with punishing new raids on enemy island installations in both the North and South Pacific.

The raids included six attacks against Japanese positions on Kiska Island in the Aleutians chain Sunday and one attack on Kiska and nearby Little Kiska Island Monday. The Sunday forays resulted in hits on the main camp and the defensive installations at north head and brought to twenty-two the number of raids against Kiska in a four-day period of heavy, pre-invasion operations.

Apparently bad weather set in Monday and reduced the number of raids to the single attack during which bombs were dropped on both Kiska and Little Kiska. A navy communiqué said that weather prevented complete observation of results but that hits were reported on houses at Little Kiska. No American planes were lost either Sunday or Monday.

Dive Bombers in Action

Monday a formation of Dauntless dive bombers, Avenger torpedo bombers and Wildcat fighters had raised Japanese positions at Rekata Bay on Santa Isabel Island, apparently with considerable success. The communiqué said, however, that the bombing "created so much smoke and dust that observation on the results of the attack was difficult."

Shortly after the assault on Rekata Bay, Dauntless and Avenger bombers with Wild Cat escort attacked Munda, on the northwestern end of New Georgia Island, and started a number of fires among defense installations, in ammunition dumps and in the Japanese camp.

Predicts 24,000 Traffic Deaths

CHICAGO, June 29 (AP)—Reporting 1,830 traffic deaths in May, the National Safety Council predicted today that the 1943 total would amount to 24,000.

This would be only fifteen per cent below last year's total of 28,200, and it led the council to warn American motorists that, despite the wartime restrictions, the traffic accident was far from licked.

The council stated a potential peak period of traffic tragedy lay immediately ahead in the week-end Fourth of July holiday, with between 250 and 300 deaths feared. "This is a drain on the nation's dwindling manpower that must not and cannot be tolerated," it stated.

British Batter City of Cologne For Second Time

Bombers Blast Industrial Center in Continuing
Great Raids

By RICE YARNER

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—Great fleets of British bombers battered the Rhineland industrial city of Cologne and the U-boat center of Hamburg last night to hit a new high in the devastation heaped upon Germany's war machine in a single month although June still has two nights to go.

Observers said the raid on Cologne was comparable with the previous heaviest attack on the Ruhr in which more than 2,000 tons of bombs were dropped. Then, at 9 p. m. (3 p. m. Eastern war time) tonight, coastal watchers reported a formation of heavy bombers which they identified as United States Flying Fortresses heading across the channel toward France.

Attack German Trains

RAP fighters also renewed their "train-busting" operations over Northern France by daylight and the air ministry said one Canadian pilot riddled six locomotives while two fliers shot up five more between them.

Watchers on the southeast coast of England, who reported the return of the daylight attackers after forty-five minutes, said that they believed the force included heavy bombers but that accurate identification was impossible because of the height at which they flew.

13th Raid of Month

Cologne, target of the first 1,000-bomber raid that pulverized 600 acres in May, 1942, bore the brunt of the double-barreled night assault which cost the RAF twenty-five four-engine planes.

It was the RAF's thirteenth heavy bombing operation of the month and was believed to have boosted the June bomb load well over the record of 12,000 tons dumped on Europe during May.

The RAF had lost 269 bombers in the record attacks this month. Weather kept the heavyweights on the ground until June 11.

Members of the House of Commons committees to assist congressmen in analyzing the needs for aid requests for funds, Maloney declared:

"We can not much longer delay such a step without a great danger of disaster."

The House previously had approved the measure, 345 to 0, and the Senate made only minor changes which did not affect the total. The bill went back to the House for action on these changes.

As approved, it contains funds for an outlay of more than $50,000,000 for army aviation, including the purchase of 99,740 new airplanes.

Roosevelt Says Writers Stir Up Serious Trouble

Otherwise Things Are Going Well on Home
Front, He Holds

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—

President Roosevelt expressed belief today that things are going along pretty well on the domestic front, and asserted that newspaper writers had stirred up some of the controversies among officials and agencies of his administration.

Asked to name specifically the "internecine affairs" started by newspapermen, he told reporters at his press conference that there were floods of them.

Read any columnists, pretty nearly, and go back to the files, he added.

He went on with some blunt criticism of some newspapers, and contended at one point that reporters on occasion had to write under order. In at least one instance, he said, the war effort was hurt. He said that was when several newspaper owners had published reports

War Labor Board Backs Plans for Food Subsidies

Declares Program Is Needed To Hold Down Wages for Duration

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—The War Labor Board tonight declared its unanimous support of the administration's food subsidy program and cautioned that its continued ability to hold down wages is conditioned by a ceiling on the cost of living.

Asserting in a statement that the cost of living since last October increased more than six per cent and the prices of fresh foods and vegetables rose nearly fifty per cent, the board said "this increasing cost of food gravely affects the wage stabilization program of the National War Labor Board. The board believes that its established wage stabilization policy is effective. It believes that policy should be carried forward in full co-operation with the other agencies of government responsible for the other factors of the overall economic stabilization program."

"But the board states with all the emphasis at its command that its stabilization program calls for a prompt carrying forward of the announced policies of the administration affecting the cost of food. In the considered opinion of the board, this is essential to the success of national economic stabilization."

"Subsidies are among the instruments which have proved effective to control food prices. The War Labor Board unanimously supports the administration's intention to use these and all appropriate measures in its food price policy."

Jones Charges Wallace with Misstatements

Cabinet Officer and Vice President in Red Hot Quarrel

Roosevelt, Taken by Surprise, Refuses To Discuss Charges

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—In a red hot quarrel, Vice President Wallace accused Secretary of Commerce Jones today of obstructing important phases of the economic warfare program. Jones snapped back that Wallace was guilty of "malice and misstatements" and called for a congressional investigation.

The head-on clash, climax to a long-smouldering feud, was virtually without precedent in view of the high places the two men occupy in the government and the sharpness of the language they used.

Coming a day after War Food Administrator Chester C. Davis resigned in disagreement with administration policy, the incident confronted President Roosevelt with the biggest row yet to occur within his official family.

Roosevelt Surprised

Mr. Roosevelt said it took him by surprise. He had only read the headlines five minutes before, he told a press conference, and consequently could not comment on Wallace's charges. Asked if it did not violate his instructions of last August that agency heads should come to him with their differences, rather than air them publicly, the president repeated that he had not read the Wallace statement, but that he thought his suggestion of last August was a good one.

The row flared into the open suddenly.

Wallace Scores Jones

First, Wallace, in a statement to a Senate committee, accused Jones of "obstructionist tactics" of hamstringing work of the Board of Economic Warfare (new) in importing strategic materials. Wallace, who heads the BEW, said Jones "failed miserably" in the period prior to and immediately after Pearl Harbor, to carry out instructions from Congress and the War Production Board to build up reserves of strategic materials which this country must import.

Since the job of arranging for such imports was turned over to BEW on April 13, 1942, he said, Jones has "done much to harass the administrative employees of the board in their single-minded effort to help shorten this war by securing adequate stocks of strategic materials."

Jones replied with this statement:

Sec. Jones Replies

"The release given out by Mr. Wallace today is filled with malice and misstatements. He makes two serious charges:

"1. That RFC had failed in the purchase and stockpiling of strategic and critical materials. The facts are that no more than ten per cent of our purchases and commitments for these materials have been initiated by BEW. RFC commitments for foreign purchases have been approximately $3,500,000,000 of which not more than ten per cent was originated by BEW. We have actually received and paid for materials to the value of $1,600,000,000 of which less than five per cent can be credited to BEW initiative."

"2. That RFC and I have obstructed and delayed programs of development and procurement initiated by BEW. There has been no serious delay by us of any vital program."

"I will answer the statement in detail and be glad to have

German-Educated Engineer Calmly Admits Taking Part in Spy Plot

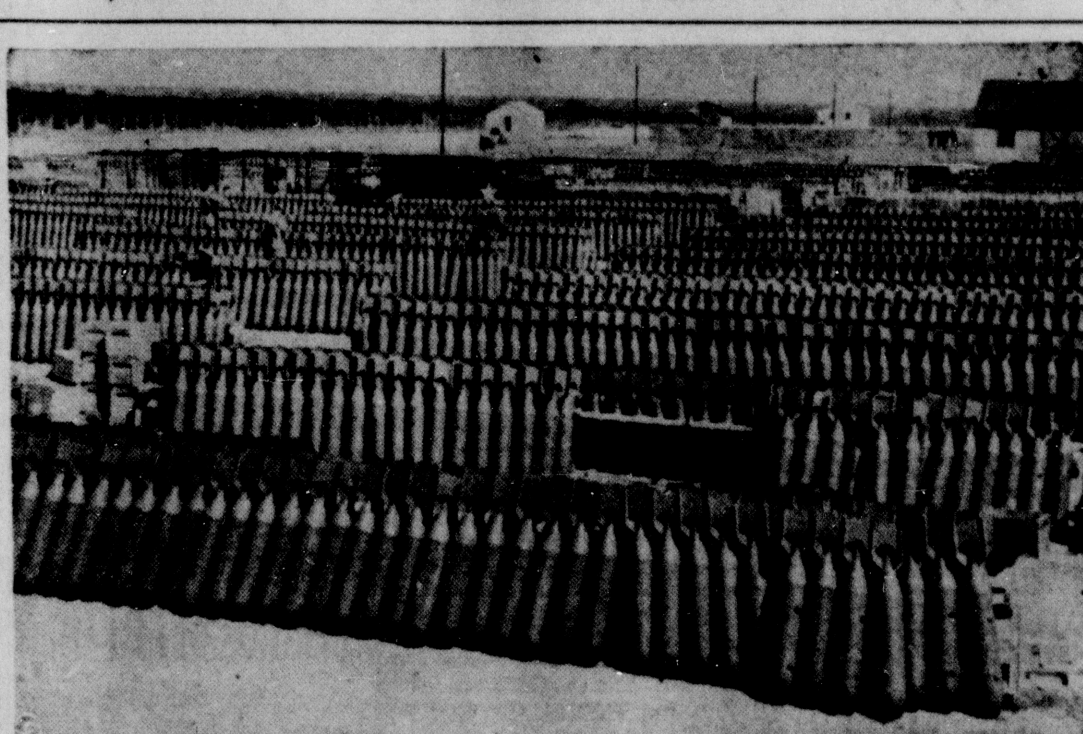

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—A small man with a goatee stood before a United States commissioner today and calmly admitted, with a slight trace of a foreign accent, that he had been part of the espionage system feeding the Nazi high command with American war secrets.

The prisoners was Erwin Harry De Spretter, 53, a German-educated consulting engineer who was arrested as the accomplice of Ernst Frederick Lehmitz, 57, Staten Island victory gardener and air raid warden. Lehmitz entered a similar plea of guilty yesterday to violating the wartime espionage act.

139,000 Miners Remain Idle in Spile of Orders

Eighteen Blast Furnaces Shut Down for Lack of Fuel

PITTSBURGH, June 29 (AP)—A back-to-work movement gained momentum in some sections of the nation's coal fields today, but an estimated 139,000 miners continued an unauthorized "no contract, no work" stoppage and another blast furnace—the nation's eighteenth—was shut down as coal supplies dwindled in war industries.

A few new walkouts developed in some areas. Over the nation, however, the number at work was 16,000 higher today than yesterday.

Full-scale operations were resumed today in both Kentucky and Ohio. The last 9,000 of Kentucky's 60,000 miners returned to the pits as did the last 2,300 of Ohio's 15,000. Six Ohio mines had been out of production yesterday.

Alabama Plant Closed

Meanwhile the Republic Steel Corporation closed its No. 1 blast furnace at Gadsden, Ala., after having banked two others in Birmingham last week. Fourteen furnaces operated by the United States Steel Corp., in the Pittsburgh area and one operated by the Shenango Furnace Co. at Sharpsville, Pa., also closed last week.

As Republic announced the new closing, another 2,000 workers in Alabama captive mines joined the stoppage, leaving only 3,000 of the state's 24,000 United Mine Workers' members on the job.

In Pennsylvania another 10,000 reported for work, leaving about 100,000 idle out of the state's 200,000. The number still out in the rich soft coal fields of Western Pennsylvania was 51,000, compared with 60,000 working.

Hard Coal Outlook Better
Another 3,500 stopped work in Eastern Pennsylvania's anthracite fields, source of the nation's entire supply of hard coal. The new idleness, however, was offset by back-to-work moves in other anthracite sections.

The outlook for steel production in Pittsburgh was improved as 2,000 bituminous workers ended their walkout in southwestern Pennsylvania's captive mine region, but about 5,000 of the area's 21,500 remained out.

Output from United States Steel-owned mines in four states was estimated at 63,000 tons today, compared with 43,000 tons yesterday. The

100 FLYING FORTRESSES DUMP MANY TONS OF BOMBS ON ITALY

By NOLAN NARGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 29 (AP)—Reaching far into Northern Italy across the width of the Mediterranean, 100 Flying Fortresses have dumped hundreds of tons of bombs upon the mainland port of Leghorn, spreading destruction in the harbor, railway yards and war plants and leaving the whole area covered by smoke so dense as to be impenetrable five hours after the attack.

This great raid, made yesterday without the loss of a single Fortress, hit an Italian light cruiser and four cargo ships and left one of Italy's oil refineries ablaze.

"Little opposition was encountered," it was officially stated today.

Italian Cruiser Hit

While the Italian high command in its broadcast communiqué was admitting "very great damage" in Leghorn, reconnaissance photographs showed a hit and two damaging misses on the cruiser, many hits on the port's oil tanks, railroad lines, bridges and storage depots.

The Italians reported that 175 persons were killed and 300 injured in the city.

Leghorn was attacked on May 28 by a fleet of Fortresses only slightly smaller than yesterday's huge force.

Allied medium bombers and fighters resumed the almost unending punishment of Sardinian airfields. In the whole of the day's operations twelve enemy planes were destroyed against two Allied craft lost.

Sicily again Attacked

Sicily, too, was again under attack by fighter-bombers based on Malta. Factories and a railroad at Licata on the island were hit, as was the Comiso airfield.

The Allied Mediterranean air command issued a statement declaring that by "false news of air victories and lies regarding their own losses" the Axis leaders were vainly trying to maintain Italian civilian morale and were in consequence losing the confidence of their own pilots.

"It is useless," said the statement, "to attempt to persuade the native of Sicily and Sardinia that our attacks are abortive. It is no good telling the poor citizen of Olbia, surrounded as he is by the charred remains of dock facilities and marshalling yards, that Sardinia still is intact. Nor would it be sensible to announce that last Friday's Fortress raid on Messina did little more than desecrate the residential area."

Treasury Checks Up on Gigantic Expenses of War

Billions Being Spent for All Purposes, Reports Declare

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—The treasury was casting up balance sheets today on an $80,000,000,000—most costly fiscal period in the world's history—and making ready to go into really big business with two war bills alone calling for more money in the year beginning Thursday than was spent in the preceding twelve months.

A $17,500,000,000 War department appropriation speeding to final passage in the Senate and a $33,000,000,000 naval fund bill signed yesterday by President Roosevelt outstrip by nearly $25,000,000 the sum the government will have spent for all purposes at the close of the business year tomorrow night.

Total actual spending during the year fell some $5,000,000,000 short of budget estimates. Direct war spending totalled $71,500,000,000 against estimates of $74,000,000,000.

The treasury's income also fell below expectations—by nearly $1,000,000,000. The $22,000,000,000 in receipts, however far exceeded the $21,000,000,000 collected during the preceding year.

Failure of many persons to pay income taxes in full on March 15—in anticipation of the pay-as-you-go system to be inaugurated Thursday—together with revenue lost through the induction of several million more men into the armed services, were cited as reasons for the revenue drop.

In addition to actual war spending, the government paid out some $2,100,000,000 for the operation of its corporations, such as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Commodity Credit Corporation against estimates of $5,041,000,000. Other costs for regular

350,000 Germans Sent to France To Fight Allies

Other Large Units Rushed to Italy by Jittery
Axis Chiefs

Experts Express Belief First Drive Will Be from South

By FRANK BRUTTO

BERN, Switzerland, June 29 (AP)—Axis nervousness increased today amid ever-growing reports of intense defensive preparations both in Italy and in France's central Rhone valley where Nazi Field Marshal Rommel was reported concentrating an estimated 350,000 troops as a barrier against Allied attempts to reach the German heart of Europe.

Italy expected the start of the battle at any hour, said the Gazette De Lausanne, adding that the Italians believed an Allied fleet was ready to attack the coasts of Sicily.

Rommel Inspects Troops

Around Lyon, on the Rhone river in France, each morning German troops wearing diverse uniforms, including some of Rommel's Africa Corps, are seen, said a Lyon dispatch to the Tribune De Geneve. Rommel himself was reported stationed in a chateau at Montdore, where he frequently is said to set out down the Rhone valley to inspect "vast aviation fields under construction."

Frenchmen going to work at dawn in that sector were reported attracted by "unending lines" of artillery and tanks, giving rise to an opinion among the population that a new campaign in France was in prospect, the dispatch said.

Uneasiness grew in Italy, said the Gazette De Lausanne, and certain fears were evident. The paper added that it was easily understood that the prospect of an Allied landing "covered by dozens of warships and thousands of planes, cannot bring comfort."

Predict Attack on Italy

The neutral Swiss paper added that even the "most ferocious" Italian defenders were not able to deny that initial Allied successes were probable. The editor of the Frankfurter Zeitung, writing from Istanbul, predicted that Allied forces would strike at Italy and not at the Balkans.

Italy was pictured as no longer a land of lemon blossoms for tourists but as an embattled protrusion on LONDON, June 30 (AP)—Russian airmen, continuing their steady pounding of German rail centers and supply depots in the pivotal sector around Orel, attacked that important junction Monday night for the third time in a week, Moscow announced early today.

A special Soviet announcement, broadcast by the Moscow radio ahead of the regular midnight communiqué, said Red army bombers caused at least fifteen big fires and explosions in Orel and went on to blast enemy ammunition dumps at Karachev, forty miles to the west.

Other Russian planes were said to have attacked the Caucasian port of Tuman on the southern shore of the Sea of Azov for the second consecutive night.

Allies Setting New Record for Bombing Germany

Nazi Protests Increase as Raids Grow in Intensity

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press Staff Writer

The RAF and the Eighth United States Air Force are setting a new record this month for a tonnage of bombs dropped on Germany and as the totals rise there is a corresponding increase in the volume and bitterness of Berlin's anti-bombing propaganda. The nation that introduced to a horrified world the spectacle of cities destroyed by mass bombing now finds the spectacle appalling when the cities are German.

With time for another blockbuster raid remaining before the month runs out London dispatches indicate that the RAF's June total will be at least 1,000 tons above the May record of 12,000 tons. It has also been a month of unprecedented activity for the Britain-based American bombers. The cries of indignation and charges of savagery broadcast by Berlin are part of the proof that the Reich has been hurt badly.

Germany Seeks Sympathy

It would be a mistake, however, to accept them at face value. Doctor Goebbels's propaganda office has a double purpose in spreading, magnifying and distorting the story of what has been done and is being done to the Ruhr and other centers of German war industry. Within Germany the effort is to steel the will to resist and arouse hatred against the British and Americans who have turned Germany's own weapon, the bomber plane, against her. At the same time the German radio is trying to arouse beyond Germany's borders a revision among the softer hearted of all lands, including America and Britain, against the use of this terrible instrument and the experiment to determine whether bombing alone can make a great power capitulate.

There is a very definite hope that an appeal to the humane instincts of Britons and Americans will be more effective in warding off the punishment than the thousands of fighter planes and anti-aircraft batteries with which Hitler has ringed the Ruhr.

Worst Yet To Come

For the Germans know that men like Air Marshal Harris and General Eaker, the British and American bomber commanders, are not boasting when they say that this thing has just begun, that there will be a steady rise in the power and destructiveness of the attacks and that the peak probably will not come until autumn. Eaker, speaking early in June, said the numbers of the eighth air force would be doubled by autumn. American spokesmen in both Washington and London have said this week that the bomb load of Eaker's command would be increased in July at least forty-five per cent over June. The time is at hand of which Harris warned the Germans over a year ago "we and the Americans" will be over day after day and night after night.

It is against this background that the latest German recriminations should be read, of which the one most calculated to gain attention is the assertion that Cologne's famous cathedral was gravely damaged (the high command's version) or destroyed (according to the propaganda agency Transocean) in the RAF's heavy raid of Monday night.

Tragedy Held Possible

It would be tragic indeed if it proves true that total war has claimed as a casualty that glorious monument of a Christian civilization on which Nazi Germany has tried to turn her back. But it was not the British that chose this form of warfare. And the cathedral stands less than 200 yards from Cologne's main railway station, less than a quarter mile from the Hohenzollern bridge over the Rhine, both legitimate military targets. It is a wonder it has not suffered before.

In the German outcry there is a sinister note, not entirely new but more insistent than ever before. Said one Transocean broadcast: "The expression 'reprisals air fleet' was heard for the first time in the past few days by Transocean's military correspondent in quarters doubtless well informed concerning the plans of the German high command." What this "reprisals air fleet" might be is not disclosed but there is more than a hint here of a readiness to try the weapons of desperation. If it is gas, the Allies are well prepared. This threat coincides with the statement of Maj. Gen. William N. Porter, chief of the United States Chemical Warfare Service, that the billion dollar appropriation his command is asking for the next twelve months would be enough to "maintain superiority in chemical warfare in the event it is initiated."

139,000 Miners

Normal total is slightly less than 100,000.

Typifying defiance of the order by some UMW members, workers in the Midland local of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, voted today to remain idle, declared they intended to stay out "until about Oct. 31, when we gather John L. Lewis expects to have a contract signed." The third truck — called in a controversy over the miners' demands for a $2 a day wage increase — expires Oct. 31.

Pierre Boisson Quits His Post In West Africa

Resignation of Governor General Is Concession to DeGaulle

By REILMAN MORIN

ALGIER, June 29 (AP) — The French Committee of National Liberation today accepted the resignation of Pierre Boisson who, as governor-general of French West Africa, repulsed a British-backed De Gaulle attack on Dakar in 1940 but subsequently joined his forces with the Allies after the African campaign began.

The action was regarded as another concession to Gen. Charles DeGaulle, who had placed Boisson high on his list of men he charged with subversion to Vichy.

The fighting French leader was the first to emerge from today's committee session and persons nearby noted that he was smiling broadly, an expression rarely seen on his stern face.

A moment later, correspondents heard the reason when a brief announcement was made, stating that Rene Pleven, commissioner of colonies, had proposed that the committee accept Boisson's offer to resign. Reliable sources said the action was taken without discussion.

DeGaulle came to the meeting directly from an inspection tour among French troops in Tunisia.

A member of his party said officers and men with whom DeGaulle talked asked only one question: "When are we going to be fighting on the soil of France?"

The morale of the troops was described as "extremely high" and an informant said they are working in complete co-operation with both American and British forces.

The committee discussed Gen. Henri Giraud's forthcoming trip to Washington and agreed without discussion that DeGaulle should preside during his absence.

Giraud's mission reportedly will be confined to questions affecting American arms assistance for the French. No date for his departure was announced, but it was reported that he planned to return to North Africa after a brief stay in the United States.

a committee of Congress fully investigate the facts."

Wallace leveled his charges at Jones in asking that Congress make independent appropriations for the Board of Economic Warfare. This agency develops programs for purchase of strategic materials, but as presently set-up the money must be supplied by the defense supplies corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC), which is under Jones.

Declares Congress Misled

Wallace accused Jones also of trying to mislead Congress into believing the RFC had supplied funds for administrative expenses of the BEW whereas Wallace said these were supplied independently.

On the subject of Jones's purchases of strategic materials, Wallace gave the committee a table which set forth that no contracts were executed, prior to BEW's assumption of responsibility, for imports of castor seeds, corundum (for grinding optical glass), palm oil (used in manufacture of tin plate), flax fiber (for parachute webbing), tantalite (for radio tubes) or zirconium (for tracer ammunition).

"For the summer of 1940 until well past Dec. 7, 1941," Wallace declared, "the Reconstruction Finance Corporation failed miserably, so far as the import field was concerned, to build the government stockpiles authorized and directed by the Congress nearly eighteen months before Pearl Harbor."

Allied Fleets Poised In the Mediterranean

LONDON, June 29 (AP) — The Mediterranean, where Allied fleets and forces were reported massed for an onslaught, was described as Europe's number one invasion front today by the Berlin radio.

The Paris radio said the extent of Allied concentrations indicated that an imminent blow would not be aimed at Italy alone.

The German DNB military commentator sought to pin on the Allies incendiary bombings "employing the 'inhumane use of phosphorous' although he did not mention the dropping of phosphorous incendiaries dropped on London by the Luftwaffe during the blitz.

Germany May Use Gas

This reference to phosphorous suggested another step in what might be a German effort to justify the use of gas—against which they have been warned repeatedly by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

"The recently reported Anglo-American shipping movements through Gibraltar leave no doubt that the imminence of large-scale operations in the Mediterranean theater," said the Paris radio military commentator. "Although most of the enemy's propaganda efforts have been concentrated on Italy, it is hardly likely that the offensive will be directed against Italy alone."

Italians Guessing

In other broadcasts, all recorded by the Associated Press, the Italians talked of five possible Allied thrusts into Southern Europe—through Italy, Spain, Turkey, Southern France or the Balkans—and the Germans repeated their unconfirmed report that United States warships had reinforced the British fleet at Gibraltar.

While the Italians spoke of five possible invasion points, the Rome radio seemed convinced that Italy would not be overlooked but said "everybody in Italy knows that Italy will fight now or never."

A German radio commentator said "it becomes increasingly evident that this becomes more and more a war against the United States."

The commentator declared that the United States' manpower, industry and geographical situation gave her a "unique position" and added that "it rests entirely with her how far she wants to go in assisting her Allies. She is master of her resolutions. She herself can hardly be affected."

On one occasion, the FBI said, De Spreiter was able to furnish Lehmitz with detailed specifications and photographic drawings of the planes made by an aircraft manufacturing company which were contained in a confidential book it had published and for which he received $100.

Other information, pooled with that obtained by Lehmitz, relayed to the Nazis the movement of war and merchant ships, destinations and cargoes of convoys and troopships and shipbuilding progress, Conroy said.

operations, including interest on the debt, ran close to the estimated $6,400,000,000 total.

The debt itself jumped during the year from about $76,000,000,000 to more than $140,000,000,000.

Book of Clients Of Capital Dive In Hands of FBI

Former Actress Testifies about Profits of "Massage Parlor"

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP) — A twenty-four-year-old woman who said she worked recently as an actress in Hollywood testified today she received as much as $800 a week as a prostitute in a Washington establishment.

The testimony was given by Sunny Gray, of New York, at the trial of Eldon Powell, 30, charged with violating the Mann Act.

Powell was accused of bringing Miss Gray to the capital and placing her in the Hopkins institute, advertised as a massage parlor. It was raided by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation several months ago, and George F. Whitehead, forty-three, booked as the proprietor, pleaded guilty to white slave charges.

Miss Gray said she left the Hopkins Institute two years ago and went to California to work as an actress. She returned to New York last October.

She said she charged from twenty to fifty dollars, and the money went to Whitehead. She received half, she added. A book of clients was maintained at the place, Miss Gray testified, and when defense counsel asked if there were any "names of senators" in the book the prosecution objected and the court halted reply. The book is in the hands of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Mrs. Mildred Dianne Powell Carter, self-styled manager of the Hopkins Institute testified.

"Pay-as-You-Don't-Go" Use Tax Criticized

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP) — The American Automobile Association called today for a moratorium on payment of the auto use tax, criticized in Congress as a "pay-as-you-don't-go" plan, but the treasury said the law is the law and new $5 windshield stickers must be displayed after tomorrow.

Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of Internal Revenue, issued a formal reminder that the tax is due and said motorists not paying it would be subject to "severe penalties."

Senator Mead (D-NY), saying the tax ought to be repealed since the gasoline-rubber shortage restricts use of cars, dubbed it the "pay-as-you-don't-go" plan.

O.P.A. Suspends Licenses of Two Gasoline Dealers

Two Food Dealers Also Alleged To Have Broken Regulations

BALTIMORE, June 29 (AP) — A state Office of Price Administration hearing commissioner imposed suspension orders today on two Baltimore gasoline dealers and two food dealers alleged to have violated rationing regulations.

Andrew H. Stelpler was ordered to suspend operation of his filling station for six months, beginning July 15. Now a war worker, Stelpler testified he leased the station and that the present attendant made the "mistakes." The OPA alleged Stelpler transferred gasoline in exchange for forty-six rationing coupons on which no automobile license numbers appeared and reported an inventory short by 18.198 gallons.

Joseph Davidson, proprietor of the Star Oil Company of 902 McCulloch street was ordered to suspend operation for one week, beginning July 5 and was put on three months probation. He was found to have failed to keep proper delivery records; failed to collect coupon notes on oil deliveries; and to have transferred 3,600 gallons of fuel oil without receiving proper ration currency in exchange.

Odisas Philipidis, restaurant proprietor, consented to a ten-day suspension order on complaints he failed to declare processed foods valued at 30,000 points.

Emanuel Rankin, owner of a grocery store, consented to a one-day suspension in dealing in all rationed foods on complaints he charged more than ceiling prices on ten processed foods. He was also placed on three months probation.

Mannix Gets Long Prison Term for Attack upon Wave

BALTIMORE, June 29 (AP) — Charles Joseph Mannix, 33, a marketing specialist for the United States Department of Agriculture, was sentenced by Federal Judge William C. Coleman tonight to serve eighteen years in a federal penitentiary for attempts to rape a twenty-seven-year-old member of the WAVES.

Mannix was convicted by a jury in federal court at the conclusion of a two-day trial, and Judge Coleman imposed the sentence shortly afterward.

The jury recommended that the judge use mercy in sentencing Mannix, who denied the attempted rape, said by the government to have occurred on the United States Public Health Service grounds near Bethesda last May 27.

Judge Coleman declared, however, that he was not bound by the jury's recommendation, and imposed a sentence just two years short of the maximum permitted under federal law.

from Lieut. General Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, that the United Nations are "rapidly approaching final victory" and that the Japanese empire soon will feel the war's impact "in a most violent and destructive way."

While he said he would not deny the military leadership a single dollar needed for the prosecution of the war, Senator Byrd declared enactment of the bill and a previously-passed navy measure would leave a total of $203,782,009,264 on hand at the treasury for army and navy expenditure.

This total of unexpended balances from appropriations voted this year and previously, he declared, is "more than twice as much as has so far been disbursed for our war activities."

Cologne Cathedral Bombed by RAF

German Propaganda Agency Asserts

[By The Associated Press]

Germany's propaganda machine worked overtime yesterday in a desperate effort to convince the world that the RAF's aerial bombardment of Cologne, Monday night was a "terroristic" attack and that the Cologne cathedral had been "destroyed" — or at least "heavily damaged."

As usual, Nazi propaganda resorted to what has become a stock repertoire of enumerating destruction to churches and civic buildings, broadcasting so-called eyewitness reports and citing press comment on the raid.

The German high command communique, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said bombs caused heavy damage to the cathedral. Another Berlin broadcast said "heavy bombs smashed through the roof of the cathedral and exploded inside the church, causing heavy devastation."

Cathedral "Destroyed"

The Transocean agency went even further, declaring that "the cathedral at Cologne was destroyed by a bomb hit in the central nave which wrecked the whole building."

There has been no confirmation from any Allied source that the cathedral was among the buildings hit.

Berlin broadcasts for foreign consumption, recorded in New York by the Office of War Information, tried to get across the point that the Germans never had destroyed "cultural monuments." The German broadcast failed to mention that the Cologne cathedral lies just a few yards from large railway installations and amidst other strategic industrial targets.

Plays up "Terror" Theme

The "terror" theme also was played up for home consumption. A broadcast of a DNB dispatch said the "heavy damage" to the cathedral was stressed in "banner headlines" in the entire German press. This dispatch also indicated that German newspapers were stressing the "heavy cost that Britain, through her surprisingly high losses, had to pay for her terror attacks."

The Nazi propagandists also told the German people that despite the intensity of the bombing the raids would not achieve their purposes. One broadcaster declared that the Allies, who he said had started the bombings to bring about "the complete destruction of the very basis of life in the whole of Germany."

Roosevelt Says

about the morals of the WAACS. The president said that was a shameful thing which hurt the war effort and caused a great many heart burnings. He termed it a deliberate newspaper job, not necessarily accomplished by reporters but on orders from the top. We all know that, he said, but it does not make it any less shameful.

Asked whether he differentiated between reporters and columnists, the chief executive said he thought they did it themselves in their daily writings. Reporters, he said, are supposed to give news but some have to color it or else are likely to lose their jobs. He knew of a lot of cases right in the room, he said, where reporters had to write in accordance with orders.

He described this as a tough situation and intolerable to many people, but he said the livelihood of some of them depends on taking orders.

He said he would not deny the military leadership a single dollar needed for the prosecution of the war, Senator Byrd declared enactment of the bill and a previously-passed navy measure would leave a total of $203,782,009,264 on hand at the treasury for army and navy expenditure.

now realized that "their aim cannot be achieved."

A Berlin short-wave broadcast to Portugal claimed that the raids had not seriously affected Germany's war potential.

Production Continues

"The machines are turning, the high ovens are producing iron, the hammers are forging steel, but workmen no longer sleep in their own beds," said the broadcast.

OWI said the Transocean agency, in a wireless telegraphic-code dispatch for American consumption, told about a "reprisal air fleet," attributing the story to "quarters well-informed concerning plans of the German supreme command."

"The strictest secrecy prevails as to what is being done in Germany to realize those actions which have already been announced and especially those which have not been announced," the agency said. "But it nevertheless transpired that construction of reprisal air fleet is apparently making considerable progress."

United States Real Enemy

Meanwhile, Lieut. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, one of the top Nazi radio propagandists, used the raid as a springboard to declare that "the war we are fighting has developed more and more into a war with the United States."

"The United States is our real enemy," said Dittmar in a broadcast which OWI said was beamed to Africa.

Dittmar declared that the "geographical isolation" of the United States would enable her to carry on the war even in following a "serious repulse." He added that this "isolation" gave the United States "a dominant place" in the Allied coalition and led to the "brutalization of warfare" since there was no fear of reprisal.

"In driving out of a town," he said, "I passed a mile and a half of automobile-workers going to a 7:30 a. m. shift at a war production plant. I visited the bank cashiers in surrounding towns of 1,000 people or more from the area in which these people live. I interviewed the cashier with a result something like this:

"Q: Who are these people in the factories?"

A: They are farmer boys, gas station attendants, grocery store clerks, drygoods store clerks, former automobile salesmen, etc.

Q: Do you cash their checks in your bank?

A: Yes.

Q: How much do they make?

A: Anywhere from $130 to $220 every two weeks.

Q: Do they have any special skills?

A: H - - - I, no. They were hauling manure last fall, digging potatoes, husking corn, pumping gas, selling groceries, drygoods, etc.

New Jersey Steel Workers Strike At Two Plants

Men Say They Have Quit Jobs To Work in Other Places

NEWARK, N. J., June 29 (AP) — Workers from two big New Jersey steel companies, Crucible Steel of Harrison and John A. Roebling's Sons of Trenton, walked out today in what union officials for both locals termed wildcat, or unauthorized, strikes.

About 1,000 workers who left their jobs in the Crucible plant said through unofficial spokesmen that they had "quit" and were not striking. The spokesmen declared that in February the men had requested wage increases and when none came they asked for releases to take other jobs. When the releases did not arrive, they said, the men left their jobs.

John A. Dutchman, of Pittsburgh, international representative of the United Steel Workers of America, CIO, said about one third of the Roebling workers walked out at the Trenton plant because of "general dissatisfaction."

"There appears to be some agitators among the workers," Dutchman declared.

on rocket ships and artificial rubber in a single week. The war has stepped up the production of novel ideas immensely."

The department head added that they all seem to suspect he will steal their ideas. Some of them won't even tell him what sort of gadget they're working on.

One of the most mysterious local inventors frequently comes to the library in disguise, affecting one accent or another, Shipman stated. "So far I haven't been able to learn his name. I suspect he thinks I'm a dangerous invention thief," he said.

Apparently age is no barrier to inventors. "Right now we have an eleven-year-old boy and a man of sixty-eight working on death-ray machines. I don't know which is making greater progress."

Voss once offered his street to the city as a present, but it was refused.

Nazis Date It Saturday But Don't Know Where

IT SEEMS that the Nazis do have the invasion jitters all right. Through their propaganda channels they have now set Saturday as the date for the anticipated Allied onslaught against the Axis.

This new edition of invasion clairvoyance, the Associated Press reports, was broadcast by the German radio and attributed to London reports reaching Stockholm. There was no elaboration concerning the point or points at which the Germans expect the blow.

Plainly the Nazis are puzzled as to the date and the points. Not long since they set June 22 for the Allied attack. The Axis in the past has issued statements on dates when they expected Allied action in the hope of eliciting information.

The Saturday deadline for invasion was described in the German reports as closely connected with two alleged facts: (1) the failure of the June 22 invasion to materialize had disappointed the British, and (2) Soviet Premier Stalin's recent expressed desire for an early second front.

In the latter connection, the German report asserted that the July 3 invasion date, "now propagated in London is primarily intended to calm the impatient Kremlin."

Berlin also stated that the report of the Saturday "invasion date" was "a widespread version in London, presumably propagated directly by the ministry of information, but in the British capital itself the only word of the report was that contained in the Berlin broadcast.

Yes, the Nazis are puzzled and jittery, and well may they be in view of the mighty preparations that have been going on, which will culminate some of these days in no mere matter of guesswork on the part of the United Nations, and Berlin would give everything to know just when and where. In good old American slang, we all hope the Allies will catch them with their pants down. Their present quandary is a fine testimonial to the Allied strategy.

No; Isolationism Is Not Dead Yet

GOVERNOR DEWEY, of New York, has bluntly asserted that isolationism is dead. In one respect that is so, but in another it is not.

Isolationism, as so long libellously used by the New Dealers, will be kept alive by them and the fourth-termite office-holding crowd for selfish purposes. The term will be wrongly interpreted and wrongly applied. It will be used to smear anybody and everybody who will not come along with the New Deal scheme of things and the New Deal purpose to perpetuate itself in power. Anybody who says a word, even in constructive criticism, about the Roosevelt foreign policy, will be ipso facto an isolationist.

Many persons perhaps wonder why it can be that Franklin Roosevelt can be such a success in foreign affairs and such a flop in domestic matters. There are two reasons, one for each. He succeeds in foreign matters simply because he takes and follows the counsels of men more able in that field, including Winston Churchill and others. He fails in the other field because he stubbornly refuses to take counsel from anybody, evaluating himself as the whole show, and because he is anything but an administrator.

And now The News can expect to be designated by the New Deal sycophants as an "isolationist" for daring thus to express itself.

Yes, There Must Be A Limit Somewhere

NOBODY, of course, wants to stint the war effort; but when a man of the wisdom and moderation of Senator George, of Georgia, becomes appalled at the staggering appropriations lately proposed for it and expresses himself as seriously concerned over them, it is high time to give thought to the necessity of establishing a limit there as well as in outlays for nonessentials and non-war activities.

Senator George actually urged that army and navy expenditures be limited to $75,000,000,000 a year instead of the $106,000,000,000 scheduled. He declared there must be a limit somewhere, however high, else a collapse will occur. In making his declaration, the senator said he realized that any suggestion to reduce the war expense is likely to bring charges of hampering the war effort, but he insisted that "no matter what the army and navy say, we are going to have to reduce or else we will not have sufficient man power to maintain even a minimum economy on the home front."

So, it is clear that Senator George is not trying to obstruct the war program. On the contrary, he seeks to strengthen it because he explains that "you can lose the war through inadequate man power to maintain domestic economy" and "there is no more certain way of sapping morale at home than unnecessary waste and extravagance."

There will be less argument, naturally, about reduction of expenses on the home front. Senator Byrd and his committee have repeatedly pointed out the necessity of curbing the uncontrolled and monstrous growth of the federal bureaucracy. They have recommended, in their latest report, that a 300,000 reduction in personnel "be promptly carried out by all departments and agencies of the federal government" and show how and where it can be done.

This mushrooming must be stopped somewhere — there must be a limit here also. The employment, the committee declares, "has been increasing at the rate of nearly fifty per cent semi-annually." In the last war there was one civilian employee to five soldiers; in this one the ratio is one to two and a half soldiers. Fifty-five per cent of the present civilian employees are not directly engaged in the war effort; and the federal government has now more persons on the pay roll than all the forty-eight states combined, plus all the county and municipal governments. It is well high incredible.

Yes, there must be a limit somewhere, both in war and non-war expenses, else, as Senator George warns, collapse will come.

Free Enterprise Must Be Saved

THE GANGS of hack lawyers and long-haired economists who infest the federal pay rolls in Washington have launched a propaganda campaign of scorn and contempt for free enterprise. They are trying to invest the term with a suggestion that it is merely the label under which businessmen exploit the consumer.

Regardless of their claims, their opposition to free enterprise is opposition to the economic system under which this government brought a higher living standard to the average citizen than any other government at any time in history.

Free enterprise is, in terms of an example which everyone knows, the system under which a Henry Ford, with nothing but a good idea and plenty of courage, created one of the greatest industries in the world. In doing that job, he did more for labor than any other American has done. He transformed the social and economic tempo from the horse-and-buggy speed to the automobile speed.

Today the government has taxed that power away from its Henry Fords. Their earnings are being diverted from plant expansion and search for markets. Their strength is being sapped away to support hundreds of thousands of fuzzle-wits on the federal pay roll.

It was in defense of this system of free enterprise that Frederick C. Crawford, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, spoke when he said recently at Cincinnati that "what we need is a clear affirmation, free of weasel words and mental reservations, of full faith and confidence in our free economic system as the only secure foundation for a free political system."

Democracy and free enterprise are inseparable. If one is destroyed, the other will expire.

In 1939 President Roosevelt told a newspaper man who inquired about a third term to wear a dunce cap. Now he might tell the boys that anyone who doesn't think he is running for a fourth term can stand on his head.

Tojo continues to tell the Nips that the Japanese mainland will be bombed. Is it possible that he reads American newspapers?

Pipe dreams are just pipe dreams usually, but when a New Dealer has one it costs us a billion dollars.

A Doll House

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I hope that little girl liked her doll house. It was a shame if she didn't because many grown-ups in our newspaper office gave a tremendous amount of time and thought to it.

Gene started it. The little girl is his niece and he thought it would be nice to build her a doll house for her birthday. . . . So he went to work on it, not knowing, not caring, how much work it would be. He gave himself two months to do it in. It was to be a simple little thing with no fancy work, but it grew and grew and soon he was planning electric lights and real curtains (sewed by his wife) and little rugs woven by some other relative and complete sets of furniture and artificial lawns and transparent windows and bits of wood carving here and there . . . and many a night Gene didn't go to bed until half past two and the rest of the family thought him an awful idiot.

He began to talk about that doll house at the office and before long I was involved. I thought it would be good to make some pictures for the walls. So I spent a couple of nights at home with cardboard and those little sticks you use to swab a child's throat—and gold and silver paint—and blue—and I made some very swell picture frames (I thought so) for a little girl I'd never seen and may never see. . . . One of our artists drew a picture of Pop-Eye and another drew a clever imitation of a Van Gogh painting and a third made pretty pictures, too, and we pasted them into the frames of which I was so proud and we had a Lilliputian art exhibit and presented them with much eclat to Gene for his doll house.

I understand that Gene didn't finish that house until the very night before the little girl's birthday. He said it was great fun and he was glad he did it but he wouldn't build another for a hundred dollars. Too much work.

He laughs and so do I at the excitement that one small girl's doll house caused among a bunch of male adults who couldn't resist the urge to share in its making. . . . And a number of wives laughed at us, too. But then, ALL wives think their husbands are funny, anyway.

Whoever in prayer can say "Our Father," acknowledges and should feel the brotherhood of the whole race of mankind.—TRYON EDWARDS.

Federation Plan Is Held the Best For World Peace

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Dear —: You ask me for constructive suggestions for a postwar plan.

The maintenance of eternal peace should be the only objective of the settlement. I do not believe any of the old reactionary suggestions will do the job — League of Nations, world courts, sworn promises to outlaw wars, pious pronouncements of peaceful intentions.

Indeed, we have found from current experience that they were only artificial and superficial methods. They do not reach down into basic causes of war.

In our search for a real solution, two basic principles must be adopted first. The solution we want must be democratic and Christian.

No nation which will sincerely espouse the principles of democracy or Christianity will be the aggressor in any war. It will not seek to impose its will on others through an international police force, a suggestion, which to me, is only an excuse for imperialism.

World Policing Impossible

Perhaps we might keep the world peace by imperialism, but it would necessitate a complete American policing of the world, and this, of course, is out of the question. Our allies would not accept such a proposal, even if offered.

The only kind of a peace-making imperialism which is possible in the existing situation would be one conducted jointly by Russia, Britain, the United States and China. Such a joint imperialism could be neither democratic nor Christian in nature.

The Russians have a different system, which they no doubt intend to keep. Indeed, even the British system, while like ours in its Christian roots, is different from ours in democratic practice, because it is basically a limited imperialism, developed to further the necessary aspirations of the British empire.

If we enter upon such a joint Chino-Anglo-Russo-American imperialism, the makeshift empire component parts are not naturally congenial, but rather competitive and conflicting.

Cloak, Not Cure

These same considerations impel me to lose hope in a world state, because such a state would only draw a deceptive cloak over the differences which exist in this world, but would not cure them, indeed, such a proposal is impossible for other reasons.

Neither the Russians, British nor Chinese desire to sacrifice their national interests and purposes, even if the United States desired to do so, and I cannot assume that we will ever desire such a state until it can be contrived on the basis for which we stand — democracy and Christianity.

Until the world comes to our principles, I do not believe our people would want one world. It would have to be our world.

How then do we seek eternal peace on a basis of democracy and Christianity? What kind of a formula can we get?

Simple Formula Needed

I think we should seek the simplest possible formula, not an intricate contrivance, based on deals to be made by the world politicians, swapping territory and policies here and there in a world conference.

If we could put our world of the future on the same basis in which the people live together in a community, then we may have simplicity and sincerity as the foundation of our undertaking—not some jumble of compromised principles arrived at by haggling between Stalin, Churchill, Roosevelt and Chiang Kai-Shek trying to outwit each other in some new conference.

I think we should lay down the basis upon which we propose to live, and maintain peace of the world.

IT'S TIME TO SEND FOR JOSEPH

Domination of Left-Wing Advisers Is Seen as Cause of Davis's Resignation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The story behind the resignation of Chester Davis as food administrator is the tragic narrative of the way left-wing advisers and CIO policies have been accepted and given weight at the White House while the man who knows a subject by experience and carries a title implying he is an administrator is not even consulted when major decisions are made.

When President Roosevelt says that he had to appoint an economic stabilizer and that he was placing the "final responsibility in one official," he may have believed that that's the way things have been functioning. But Chester Davis didn't find it so. He found himself being asked to take order from left-wingers who sit in Mr. Byrnes's office and really run the government. They also tell the War Labor Board where to get off and they write rules and regulations for the OPA. Possibly the president doesn't know that a man of the background of Chester Davis is pushed around by these same advisers.

Subsidy plans have been announced, for instance, without so much as the courtesy of a prior consultation with Mr. Davis. At no time, also, was he permitted to make a policy in the matter of food pricing and administration though this power was presumably given him by executive order when he took office.

Roll-Back Opposed It has been the Davis position that subsidies should be used with care and with the specific purpose of increasing production or overcoming some handicap rather than to add to the nation's purchasing power. He was also vehemently opposed to the roll-back of prices. But after the plan was announced, Davis urged Byrnes and others that it was necessary to develop rules and regulations before making announcements.

But this advice was repeated, and the disorganization of the meat packing industry has resulted from the announcement. It is said that Vinson had promised Davis there would be no announcement of the meat subsidy. Later on it was discovered that one of the bright young men in the Byrnes office made it anyway. Davis was not even given the courtesy of a telephone call explaining the reversal of plan.

Chester Davis is a friend and supporter of President Roosevelt. In the 1936 presidential campaign, Mr. Davis did yeoman service in winning the agricultural regions to the New Deal side. He has been one of the most influential men of the administration with respect to legislation on Capitol Hill. It was natural for Mr. Roosevelt to send for him a few months ago and try to persuade him to operate the food administration.

Resignation in Blackout

Mr. Davis didn't want any clashes with the secretary of agriculture or anybody else. He wanted a clear definition of authority. The president told him not to worry—that he (Chester Davis) would have access to the chief executive at all times.

But it didn't turn out that way.

Strikers In Uniform?

From the Pittsburgh Press

To begin, we are very, very skeptical of President Roosevelt's threat to draft over-age mine strikers, or any other strikers, into the United States Army.

We are doubtful if the president ever means to use this scheme and we are even more doubtful that it would work.

It is so impractical in so many ways that it is almost beyond debate.

But aside from these angles, there is another aspect of this proposal which we think thoroughly condemns it.

This is the matter of putting into the uniform of the United States Army men drafted solely because they had defied their government and hampered war production.

It is bound to produce an adverse reaction among the men already in uniform. These men regard the uniform as a symbol of honor. And Mr. Roosevelt proposes to punish strikers by drafting them into these uniforms—as if the Army were a penitentiary!

It seems to us nobody would be punished except the uniform of the United States Army.

Wallace Advocates Re-education Plan For the Germans

By CHARLES F. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

After the war the Germans are to have a new system of education wished on them by the democracies, if Vice President

Henry A. Wallace has his way. Others have made a similar suggestion hitherto and I had occasion recently to wonder, in print, whether or not such an experiment could be made to "take." Henry undertakes to prove the affirmative. He doesn't exactly prove it, but he does make the assertion.

It isn't precisely his plan to look incipient Nazis up and COMPEL them to assimilate what he wants them to learn.

He aims rather at CONVERTING them to world respectability.

He recognizes that not even a start can be made on this program while the conflict continues to rage. However, he is hopeful that the Teutons themselves, once utterly licked, will see the merits of the proposition, from their own standpoint, and "fall for it" semi-voluntarily.

Prussian Not Reformed

The re-educators date their calculations back to the early days following the last war.

They recognize that, in that era, an old-time Prussian, while acknowledging that he was hopelessly soaked, was not in the least reformed. Yet, if the rising generation of the latter 19-teens had been promptly and resolutely but kindly taken in hand, the re-educationists reason that the current tribe of their then-babies would be just as nice as the rest of us now.

So let's start the reformatory process as early as possible, urge Henry Wallace and his followers, and maybe, another generation ahead, none of us will want another war.

Countries, quite generally do not like them. They do like an occasional "grab," but not at the probable expense of a doubtful ultimate struggle.

Troubles Not Sensed

Idealists, like Henry, do not sense the prospect of troubles a-coming. Anyway, they do not deem them inevitable. They think that, maybe, they can be headed off by re-education. That is, they believe that re-education of the OTHER folk is essential—not re-education of US.

O. K.! Say that re-education of the Germans is a practicability. The Italians do not have to be re-educated.

Except officially, they are lined up with us already.

So is Spain.

Latin America is solid—barring Argentina's small chunk.

China is "pro" our bunch, naturally.

Nobody is much out on the limb except Japan.

Line them up!

The U. S. A. and Britain!

Latin America!

Turkey and India

Miscellaneous Eastern Europe, plus Turkey and such places! India!

China? It is anti-Japanese 100 percent. It belongs to the democracies 100 per cent.

And the Japs?

In this country they are as pro-Jap as they can be figured on.

But they are pro-Jap, too. And not pro-American. They do not need re-education—rather less than Germans.

Summing them up—

We American-Anglos are solid, of course; ditto we and the Latins; ditto we and the rest of us, inclusive of the Chinese.

Then there is some miscellanea, but it is inconsiderable.

Germans will be hardest to re-educate folk.

Italians will be easy.

Japs a Problem

Japs are a problem. They are not so crazy. They are mixed with the Chinese, too.

We and the Orient are commingled. Mixing our educations is not so easy.

We can get along with the Chinese! But the Occident and the Japs?

Why the two of them are so different is a puzzle, but they are as different as two different races—conflicting nationalities.

Well, alternative Occidental and Oriental educations look like taking considerable co-ordinate educations inside the next generation.

Mind and Emotions Play Leading Role In Sickness, Dr. Clendening Asserts

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
One of the most distinguished works of science that has ever been published in the United States is William Osler's "Principles and Practice of Medicine." The first edition appeared in 1892. A number of laymen have told me that they have read it from cover to cover two or three times and required their children to do so.

It fell into my hands in the sixth edition in 1905 when I was a medical student and my copy of that edition is so marked and interlined with pasted-up clippings that it is hardly legible.

This year the fourteenth edition, dated late in 1942, the fiftieth anniversary of the first, has just appeared under the editorship of the distinguished Professor Henry A. Christian of Harvard University.

Psychosomatic Disorders

I was surprised on opening this edition to find that the first section dealt with psychosomatic medicine.

This is quite a change because in the old days by immemorial tradition every textbook of medicine started out with the discussion of typhoid fever. The change is an indication of the importance which Dr. Christian believes should be attached to this new viewpoint of psychosomatic medicine.

Typhoid fever was a disease which everybody once had but it now has been conquered by preventive hygiene.

Today I assume the best medical thought believes that more people are suffering from psychosomatic disorders than from anything else.

Psychosomatic is a combination of the Greek word "psyche," which means soul and "soma" which means body. In other words, it is a recognition of the fact that most people who are sick are sick in body, mind and soul. It is a very old thought with a very new twist.

People are inclined to believe that if they have dyspepsia or constipation or high blood pressure it is a purely mechanical and organic derangement. Psychosomatic medicine says that it is not; that the soul and mind and emotions are just as much deranged as the body in these conditions.

I say that it is an old conception because it is no more than the old idea of constitutions—of the humoral pathology of Hippocrates and Galen. There was the man of phlegmatic constitution, the man of melancholic temperament, the bilious and the sanguine man, all of whom were subject to certain diseases in which body, soul and mind were equally involved.

One of the difficulties of studying the subject consists in arriving at an idea of what is normality. Some recent authors give the following definitions.

Normal Personality
Emotional Features.—A minimum of mental conflict. Satisfactory work capacity. Ability to love someone other than self.

Answer: Cultured buttermilk is supposed to have an especial effect on constipation and as an intestinal antiseptic, somewhat more so than old-fashioned churned buttermilk. Otherwise the action is about the same. Both are valuable and neither is harmful.

Baltimore & Ohio Revenues Higher

BALTIMORE, June 29 (AP)—Operating revenues of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad during May amounted to $30,508,060, an increase of $4,527,968 over the same month last year, company officials report.

The railroad, during the first five months of this year, had a revenue increase of $31,297,707 over that for the same period in 1942.

Net income for May, 1943, after providing for all taxes, amortization of defense projects and fixed charges, including contingent interest totaled $4,014,415. This was $1,166,546 more than the net for May of last year, the company said.

A railroad locomotive was drafted recently by Pontiac, Mich., to supply steam for operation of a pump at one of the city's water pumping stations while new equipment was being installed at the plant.

Jones Takes Over Food Control as Davis Retires

New Administrator Says Americans Are Best Fed in History

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—Marvin Jones took over today as war food administrator with definite indication that he believed any shortages would be only relative to a people he said were better fed than ever before in the nation's history.

"The American people are eating more and better than ever before," he said, and added that it was a point not enough emphasized in all of shortages. He said there would be enough food for a "healthful diet" for the duration.

"As war food administrator I expect to do the best job I can with the tools at hand," Jones said as he took the oath of office to succeed Chester Davis.

His statement was accepted as evidence that he went into office without any enlargement of the powers which his predecessor considered were insufficient to meet the responsibilities of the post.

Davis' resignation was accepted by President Roosevelt yesterday after long discussion of Davis' bid for more authority, particularly in relation to prices, and a direct disagreement over the administration's program of subsidies to roll back food prices to the consumer.

Jones' assignment to the food post was taken as assurance that the price issue would continue to be a paramount one in food policies, since he brings to the office a long record as a supporter of Roosevelt measures.

Another indication of food subsidy support came, meanwhile, from the capitol where Senate and House conferees were attempting to iron out differences between the two houses on measures prohibiting such payments.

Compromise Unlikely
Senate conferees said the effort to reach a compromise on the measures, for extension of the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), appeared hopeless. They said the committee likely will try to salvage enough of the measures to extend the life of CCC, which expires tomorrow night.

Two of the five Senate conferees declined to be quoted by name, said in case of disagreement on the bills, legislation will be introduced allowing funds for the rollbacks already ordered on meat and butter prices and proposed for coffee. They said agreement in the Senate, at least, had changed since the subsidy prohibition was vetoed Saturday.

Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) retired from the conference, saying he opposed the anti-subsidy provisions and could not support either the Senate or House measure. Senator Radcliffe (D-Md.) replaced him.

Martin Election Set for July 16

BALTIMORE, June 29 (AP)—Glenn L. Martin company officials announced today that July 16 had been set as the date when plant employees would elect one of three labor unions as a collective bargaining agent or vote not to be represented by a union.

The election was ordered by the National Labor Relations Board after a hearing on the CIO's petition for recognition. The board's order stipulated that most of the company's employees not in supervisory capacities were eligible to vote.

The election date was set by Russell R. Miller, NLRB agent, officials said.

Rent Control Helps Baltimore Tenants

BALTIMORE, June 29 (AP)—Tenants in the Baltimore defense rental area have saved more than $2,000,000 since the rent control program began here one year ago Thursday. Area Rent Control Director Lucien E. D. Gaudreau said today.

Rent control began in Baltimore last July 1, and all living quarters were ordered frozen at the level of April 1, 1941.

More than 200,000 registrations were filed, representing some 460,000 dwelling units, in the landlord registration which followed the rent control order.

Baltimore Bans Watering Lawns

Action Declared Necessary Because of Huge Consumption

BALTIMORE, June 29 (AP)—A city-wide ban was placed today on the use of hose for watering lawns and shrubbery or for washing pavements.

The action was taken, municipal officials said, as a means of conserving the water supply after an all-time peak in consumption had been reached over the weekend.

A new drop of half an inch was reported in the Loch Raven reservoir today, with the showers at noon causing only a slight rise in the water level.

25,000,000 Gallons Lost
The drop in the reservoir represented a loss of approximately 25,000,000 gallons.

Concern of municipal authorities over the situation, Leon Small, chief engineer of the Bureau of Water Supply, said, arose over the greatly increased use rather than from the state of the reserves.

An all-time high consumption was set Saturday when 200,000,000 gallons went through the pipes yesterday 176,000,000 gallons were checked.

Consumption Increasing
A prolonged drought, similar to that of 1931, could be dangerous, Small said, with industry requiring unprecedented quantities of water.

The water reserve would be adequate for normal demands, he continued, but the concern arose from the increase in consumption which produces a drain on reserves.

Other than the 23,500,000-gallon Loch Raven reservoir, the city also has the Prettyboy dam, impounding 20,000,000 gallons.

In August, 1941, the average daily consumption of water was 160,000,000, while the average for the current month is 173,700,000 gallons per day.

Riots in Athens Follow Raids by Yankee Bombers

Greeks Hit Back at Germans, but Many Are Quickly Executed

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Riots of serious proportions were reported tonight to have occurred in Athens and three other Greek cities as a result of weekend American bombings during which leaflets were dropped signed by President Roosevelt and expressing the hope that the Greeks' liberation was not far off.

An NBC correspondent reported from Salonika, target of an Allied air raid Friday, and at Larissa and Volos as well as at Athens, where nearby airfields were bombed Sunday. He said hundreds of Greeks were arrested and many were shot by Axis occupation troops.

The attack on two Athens airports, Eleftheria and Hissani, was carried out with tons of explosives leaving them badly damaged. At the same time the leaflets, saluting the Greeks' heroic resistance, were scattered over the area.

"It is believed beyond doubt that these riots were the results of hate-fueled American raids," he reported. "The Greeks saw in them a great opportunity and lost no time in striking a blow for themselves."

"Axis occupation troops went out to meet the demonstrators and arrested several hundred. Of the many hundreds of Greeks arrested, scores have already been shot and more probably will be shot."

Ickes To Address Nation Tonight

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Ickes announced tonight he would make a radio address on the total situation tomorrow at 7:05 p. m. over the blue network.

It was understood the government mine custodian's twenty-five-minute speech would be directed particularly to the miners, some of whom have remained out of the back-to-work movement following the third general coal strike.

Meanwhile, Ickes took another step toward creation of an organization to supervise management of coal mines for the government pending their restoration to the private owners with the appointment of Thomas J. Thomas, associate deputy solid fuels administrator, as chief assistant to Carl E. Newton, the new federal director of mine operations under Ickes.

Thomas, a one-time miner who is president of the Valley Coal Company, Valley, Ill., will continue in his post with the solid fuels administration, which is being kept as a unit apart from the emergency mine operations office because of its more permanent status.

Preparations for the blow at German-held territory were well advanced, he told a press conference, and it was unlikely that "we will have to wait very long" before the effort to crush Hitler on land is launched. He suggested that comparatively small assaults might serve as a prelude to the opening of a full-fledged second front.

The Allies "obviously are approaching another great crisis of the war," he said.

U-Boat a Day Sunk By Allied Forces

OTTAWA, June 29 (AP)—An Allied assault on Axis territory in the very near future was predicted today by Malcolm MacDonald, Britain's high commissioner to Canada, who disclosed also that the enemy U-boats had been knocked out at the rate of one a day for the last two weeks.

Preparations for the blow at German-held territory were well advanced, he told a press conference, and it was unlikely that "we will have to wait very long" before the effort to crush Hitler on land is launched. He suggested that comparatively small assaults might serve as a prelude to the opening of a full-fledged second front.

The Allies "obviously are approaching another great crisis of the war," he said.

Germans Fitting Submarines with Radio Detectors

Hope New Apparatus Will Reduce Number of Sinkings

By EDWIN SHANKE
STOCKHOLM, June 29 (AP)—The Germans are believed to be fitting out their U-boats with radio location apparatus in hopes of being better able to combat Allied air and sea patrols guarding the sea-lanes and to detect convoys, reliable sources said tonight.

The increased efficiency of the Allied defense has forced the Nazis to attempt to find counter-measures, the sources said, partly explaining the recent reduction of U-boat activity.

It is recalled that Nazi naval experts have been forecasting that Admiral Karl Doenitz, the Nazi U-boat fleet commander, and his top submarine minds would be seeking the answer to Allied methods of protecting convoys.

May Aid Sea Raiders

The detectors under discussion are expected to give the Nazi under-sea raiders a better chance of escaping planes and escort vessels by earlier warning of their presence, it was said.

They added that at the same time such devices might enable submarines to pick up at limited distances merchant shipping of which German naval headquarters is not aware.

Main center for construction of the intricate radio location apparatus, it was said, is at the Zeppelin city of Friedrichshafen, which the RAF blasted last week in its shuttle-bombing experiment with a view to putting out of commission the work so vital to Nazi U-boat warfare.

May Stop Pack Hunting

With the introduction of the locators, observers here expressed the opinion that the Nazis might drop their pack tactics of hunting Allied shipping because that method had proved so costly. One submarine flotilla recently returned to its base reportedly having suffered a twenty-three per cent loss.

The sources said that as an alternative the Germans might operate in groups of much smaller numbers or even send commanders out on their own again.

Instrumental Music Lessons Urged for Child

Dr. Myers Says Practice Periods Could Be Lengthened in Summer

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Curiously, we have the child or youth who discontinues instrumental music and the like when summer vacation time comes. This practice has been prompted, chiefly, by the small number of parents who have had the privilege of leaving home for the summer of leave home for vacation. Very few will be able to do so for the duration. Most of our children under 14, especially in towns and cities, have so much time on their hands in summer they don't know what to do with it. Some of them, alas, face physical and moral dangers.

Music Is a Help

Parents who can afford it, and many can, should have their children take instrumental music lessons this summer and practice faithfully each day. Many children who take music lessons during the school year do it at too great cost to their physical and emotional health. Yet most of these very children could profit greatly by taking music lessons regularly during the summer. They have time to practice them.

While few children under 14 should, during the winter, be required to practice longer than a total of thirty minutes a day, many of them could profitably practice, during the summer, for from two to four or more practice periods each day. Not many children would welcome such a program of summer work, but the parents who have in mind the best education and character growth of the child will see that this child gets this instruction. The more skilful the teacher, of course, the easier for such a program to be accomplished.

Cannon in Square at Mt. Savage Will Go to Scrap Metal Drive

Citizens Will Erect Triangular Stone Monument in Near Future

MT. SAVAGE, June 29—The cannon, which has been standing in war memorial square here for nearly twenty years, will be contributed to the scrap metal drive to be used for national defense, in accordance with the vote of the citizens at a meeting Sunday evening in the Junior Order hall. The cannon, a memorial to the heroes of World War I, was given to the community by the American Legion. It is supposedly a gun used by German soldiers during the war and was acquired through the efforts of former Rep. David J. Lewis.

In place of the cannon, the citizens have decided to erect a triangular stone monument in the square. This monument will stand approximately five feet high and will contain the names of veterans of the Civil War, Spanish American War, First World War and present war, and also the names of all who have died in action on the battlefield. These names will be put on a wooden marker until after the war when a suitable bronze plaque can be acquired. The top of the monument is to be flat and a flag pole will be erected in the center. This memorial will be built so as to be an everlasting tribute.

Final plans for the erection of the monument will be made at a meeting to be held July 11, in the Junior Order hall. Sunday's meeting was under the direction of Anthony Monohan, who heads the committee in charge of the war memorial project.

It was also agreed that all business houses, homes, theaters and the local post office will be asked to display flags at all times and that every building in the community will display an American flag on Independence day. Colin Bowers, chairman of the town council, made a request that citizens burn papers and other trash of dispose of them in some other way than throwing them in the creek. Due to the lack of rain in the past month, the water is very low in the creek and refuse has collected in large amounts all along the stream, causing the water to become stagnant. Bowers stated that if the situation continues he is afraid the town might be subject to an epidemic, similar to the one here two years ago.

A children's health clinic will be held Friday afternoon at 1:30 in the community building. The clinic will be in charge of the county health officials.

Amazing Air Raid Seen in "Bombardier"

Hailed as the most spectacular sequence ever filmed, a night bombing raid by a squadron of "Flying Fortresses" over Tokyo war factories forms the gripping climax of "Bombardier," RKO Radio's new air force offering, opening at the Liberty Thursday.

Put O'Brien and Randolph Scott are co-starred in the picture much of which was filmed at the United States Army's big bombardier training base at Kirtland Field, New Mexico. The "inside story" of the famous Norden bombsight, and realistic details of the training program by which student bomb droppers are taught to manipulate the instrument, also features the unusual offering, which was directed by Richard Wallace.

"Hangmen Also Die" Coming to Maryland

For the first time since the war began Hollywood has enlisted the aid of the Underground. In particular, Arnold Pressburger and Fritz Lang in "Hangmen Also Die," a thrilling drama revolving around the hunt for the assassin of Heydrich, the Hangman, Nazi protector in Czechoslovakia, which opens at the Maryland theater tomorrow, through United Artists release, have collaborated with the Czech Underground in Prague in order to give their picture the authentic verisimilitude of history in the actual process of being made!

This is the fact for two reasons: first, the gladly accorded co-operation of the Czechoslovakian Legation in Washington; second, the collaboration of the Czech government-in-exile in London, which possesses a vast reservoir of secret documents and records all of which were made available to Fritz Lang and John Wexley, co-authors of the script.

Canadian Newsprint Deliveries Reduced

MONTREAL, June 29 (AP) —Newsprint Administrator Guy Z. Hoult announces that instructions have been sent to Canadian newsprint manufacturers which, in effect, would cut July deliveries to the United States thirteen per cent below the amounts ordered.

The statement stressed that the order "is obviously an expedient applicable to July orders only, pending the operation of a plan of distribution" which the war production board of the United States is preparing to cover future orders for newsprint in Canada.

Hoult said that United States newsprint orders for July, at 240,000 tons, "again substantially exceed the total deliveries of 210,000 tons that Canada has agreed to supply to the United States each month through the third quarter of 1943."

He added that the WPB was working on a plan which it was hoped would be ready by July 15 which would result in United States orders totalling not more than 210,000 tons monthly from Canadian mills.

Federal Bureaus Reflect Natural Apathy to Babies

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.—Copyright, 1943, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

War-torn Europe, which has so little to give them, still puts welcome on the door-mat for babies. In contrast, not only do many of our apartment houses and family hotels decline to have them as residents, but restrictions are imposed in government orders.

What Grover Cleveland might have called "ghoulish glee," prevailed in the House of Representatives when Representative Lyle H. Boren, Democrat, of Oklahoma, called the House's attention to the fact the Office of Price Administration proposes to limit the size of maternity dresses. Imagine it!

Never has this country had such a bumper baby crop as this year. War surely has a way of speeding up blessed events. It's time for bureaucrats to know some of the facts of life.

Unpopular Bureau

And unless Representative Boren, like a lot of others is just having a crack at an unpopular bureau, the OPA must be wholly innocent of the facts that all alphabetical young men should know.

Humor over the maternity gowns touched off in the House of Representatives ignited conversations at fashionable cocktail parties in Washington. And it was agreed, since there is no telling whether the stork will arrive with a single, or double burden, or even more, it might be a good idea to have Madame Elvire Dionne sit in with the OPA when they are conferring about lopping off inches on maternity gowns.

And lest we give the impression we're putting too much emphasis on an isolated incident, here's more stork news from Greenbelt, that federally-owned housing project in Maryland. A clause in the leases reads: "The tenant agrees to notify the government of any change in the composition of the household. Additional members shall not be permitted occupancy of the premises, except with written permission of the government."

Cold Shoulder to Babies
Right now, there are over a hundred families in Greenbelt worrying over expected additional members. What if they shall not be permitted occupancy of the premises? What's to be done about our national cold shoulder to babies?

Well, that's one disposition we can make of Messrs. Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo, when we take them prisoners. They can hold classes and tell us the value of blessed events.

I'm told that in Washington there is a girl's club, known as the "Eight to One." The ratio of eight girls to one man in Washington is responsible for the club's name.

Washington streets, restaurants,

CUMBERLAND'S YOUNG DANCING STAR

Dorna Jean Thomas, appearing today on the Maryland theater stage in "The Cumberland Follies of 1943," is making her first solo appearance before local audience. Destined for important roles in the future Dorna's appearance today strikes a highlight in her presentation of an acrobatic dancer. The "Follies," directed by John Moyer and music by Peck Mills includes fifty well-known Cumberland entertainers.

all sorts and kinds of foregatherings places are packed with soldiers, sailors, marines and their more glamorously-turned out officers; still, uniformed girls, WAACS, WAVES, SPARS and Uncle Sam's nieces as well, employed in the government offices, swing along the avenues without a man in tow. Apparently, it's a case of "Never the twain did meet."

"Conversation Booths"
The other day at a press conference, Mrs. Roosevelt told about some dormitories in Arlington, Virginia, she had visited, which had all sorts of facilities for making government girls happy. There was a pleasant library where they could lounge after hours, reading the latest magazines; they could borrow an electric iron for pressing their dresses if they were going out; they could launder their undies and a few cushions on the seats might help to make important conversations a little easier.

Everywhere in cities crowded by war industries and camps there is a lack of facilities for the encouragement of young romance under proper conditions.

Correspondents Serve at Front

High Casualties Caused by Daring of Writers in This War

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Casualties among American war correspondents are high because the men who gather the battle news "are getting into the thick of the fighting as never before."

And that is why Americans at home are getting so accurate a conception of the war's hardships and heroism, writes Harold Denny, New York Times correspondent, in the current issue of Look magazine. The article is entitled, "War Correspondents Aren't Soldiers but They Do Die."

Among the twelve correspondents who have been killed, Denny listed Edward Henry Crockett of the Associated Press, in the torpedoing of a British war vessel in the Mediterranean, and Jack Singer, International News Service, who went down with the aircraft carrier Wasp.

Denny also cited Vern Haugland, the AP man decorated by General MacArthur, after spending forty-three days in a New Guinea jungle; and Leo S. Disher of the United Press, wounded in the landing at Oran.

"The correspondent is in the army, but not of it," Denny wrote. "He wears an officer's uniform, but has no authority. A civilian, he is forbidden to carry arms, yet he is subject to military law and can be court-martialed for disobedience."

"When the battle is joined, he is in it. When the day's action is over, he unlimbers his portable and types his dispatch on any handy crate."

"His compensation is knowing his stories will help win the war by building morale at home."

Brown Predicts Gas Coupons Will Stay At Present Levels

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown states that no reduction in the value of A, B, or C gasoline coupons is "now contemplated."

"It is the hope of the Office of Price Administration that sufficient gasoline can be brought into the northeastern shortage area to make any further reduction in civilian use unnecessary," Brown said. He added, however, that reduction of coupon values would be necessary if all the gasoline that it is possible to transport leaves "less than enough to meet essential civilian needs."

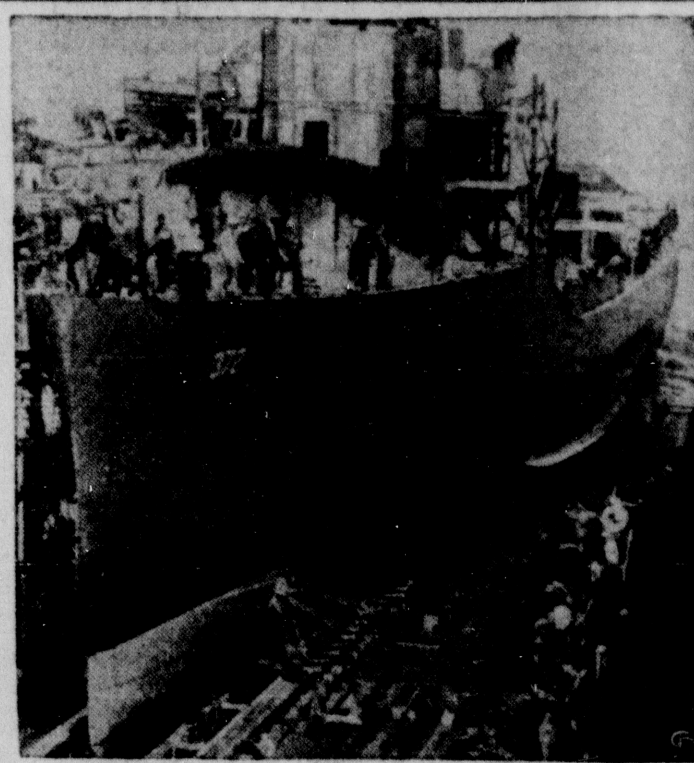

The petroleum administration last week allotted 328,000 barrels of gasoline a day to the east coast for July, August and September, an increase of 2,000 barrels above the allowance for June. The increase, however, will be offset by added demands for gasoline for hauling farm crops to markets and other commercial transportation.

Baltimore Running Out of Soft Drinks

BALTIMORE, June 29 (AP)—The law of supply and demand is pinching Baltimoreans in more ways than one. This time it's soft drinks.

Supplies of soft drinks, and the syrups used for the counter trade, have reached their lowest points since the beginning of the war, city drugstore and grocery managers reported. Restrictions on sugar and other ingredients are not to blame for the soft-drink shortage, they BALTIMORE, June 28 (AP)—Burying the dead may become an essential industry — locally — if a petition presented to the War Manpower Commission by the two graveyard organizations of Maryland and the District of Columbia, faced with a dwindling number of employees, want the petition granted so they will have priority ratings for labor with the United States Employment Service. HAGERSTOWN, June 28 (AP)—The annual Maryland state convention of the benevolent and protective order of Elks will be held here August 13, 14 and 15. General Chairman Charles L. Mobley announced.

Due to the ban on pleasure driving and gasoline rationing the convention will be more or less streamlined but plans are going forward for the entertainment of a large number of delegates and guests. Registration will start Friday, August 13 with business sessions and entertainment Saturday and Sunday.

Major Leagues Will Celebrate "War Relief Day"

Extravagant Plans Are Made To Make Campaign Successful

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Baseball, usually disdainful of ballyhoo, is blowing its own horn finally to awaken fans to tomorrow's big "War Relief Day" in the major leagues.

This is the first of two days designated by Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis on which all clubs will turn over their entire receipts to the National War Fund and extravagant plans have been made to make it successful.

Tomorrow marks the opening of another East-West series in both the National and American Leagues, making the games themselves or more than average interest, but the magnates have dressed up these attractions with gaudy trimmings.

Every club will present either a doubleheader or a twilight or night game, or a combination of these, and most of them will have additional pageantry on the program.

In the National League, St. Louis at New York, Cincinnati at Brooklyn and Chicago at Boston are doubleheaders and Pittsburgh at Philadelphia is a night game.

Ticket Campaigns Staged

In the American League, New York at Cleveland, Washington at Chicago and Philadelphia at St. Louis at night games and Boston at Detroit is a twilight attraction.

Ticket campaigns have been under way in all these cities for several days with fans being urged to buy tickets for servicemen if they cannot attend themselves. In this connection, Boston arranged the most novel stunt—having an airplane fly over Boston Common today and drop several hundred tickets with notes asking that they be presented to soldiers and sailors.

At Brooklyn, the fans will see a field meet between players of the Dodgers and Reds teams. Al Schacht's comedy act, and parading by American Legion drum corps. In addition Dixie Walker, the Brooklyn fans' favorite ball player, will sing one or more songs.

A field meet—running, throwing, batting and catching—also will match members of the fleet St. Louis Cardinals and the Giants at the Polo Grounds.

The game at Philadelphia will be preceded with a concert by the Navy band.

At Chicago a combined team of White Sox and Senators, with Ossie Bluege managing and Lefty Gomez pitching, will play Mickey Vernon's Great Lake Naval Training Station team in a twilight tussle before the regular Washington-Chicago game under the floodlights.

O'Neill To Race Cronin

In St. Louis, the Lambert Field Navy Wings will play the Army's Jefferson Barracks nine in a pre-

FOR THE GAME'S SAKE

By LAWRENCE PERRY

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—If it isn't one thing in Philadelphia it is another, so far as the major movie houses of the city on the Schuylkill are concerned. To specify, if it isn't the Phillies it's the Athletics and vice versa. One or the other is always winning a bunch of games and climbing toward the top with the result that when night games are played the good burghers go to a ball game instead of to film shows. It is really a situation in the amusement field that calls for sympathy.

When the Phillies were plodding along in the cellar or near it year after year they were no complication at all. Only the Athletics were on hand to call for nocturnal patronage—and until the current season—the call was not sufficiently potent to bother the local film interests. But now, as already said, one or the other up and does things and the wild-eyed public piles into the ball park in which the current attraction lies. All of which is to the extreme disadvantage of exhibitors of Judy Garland, Bob Hope, Jean Arthur and other female and male luminaries currently bidding for favor in William Penn's domain.

The Phillies, in other words, are making money and so are the Athletics which have the advantage of owning the smallest payroll in the league. As a matter of fact, this war has not meant as great disaster to the big league clubs as was thought would be the case.

If Washington keeps on going it may turn in its greatest total for home game attendance in the history of the club, and where other clubs note decreased patronage they have the compensating satisfaction of saving through the partial elimination of de luxe railroad transportation, replacement of high-priced stars—in the national service—by more modestly demanding veterans, or recruits from the minor leagues and so forth.

Speaking of absentees of stellar magnitude Clyde Milan's assertion that Babe Ruth in his prime and playing today, or were Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio active in the game, any one of them alone could win a pennant for any club.

liminary to the Browns-Athletics attraction. The service game will bring together George Sisler's sons, Dick and George, Jr., on opposing teams.

The Cleveland game will be preceded by a parade of navy, coast guard, air cadets and WAACS with a company drill by military policemen and a display of armored equipment.

Detroit will have a field meet between members of the Tigers and Red Sox and perhaps the funniest stunt of all—a race between managers Steve O'Neill and Joe Cronin, each blindfolded and pushing a wheelbarrow from second base to the home plate. A $25 war bond will be presented to whoever moves in the most direct line.

The clubs which are away from home tomorrow will have their turn to produce relief shows in their own parks July 28.

in the American League, was a strikingly keen observation. It still holds even though the comeliness of pitchers in the past two months or so is beginning to wane as batters are thawing out from those frigid weeks of spring training in northern climes.

Who was it who said some time ago that the pitchers of both leagues—most of them anyway—were turning in results far beyond their merits as pitchers? It was a sage observation and in many cases still holds good. But a glance at those bleak nine days dating from June 14 when not a single Yankee hurler finished a game and twenty were offered up to opposing batters by the dismayed and desperate Joe McCarthy and an additional glance at the Dodger pitching situation and mound troubles in other quarters—in brief, a glance almost anywhere—offer convincing evidence that the old war club is returning to prominence.

Incidentally, those tears that were shed some time ago about the even-Stephen chance of the Red Sox finishing in the cellar appear to have been wasted. It's nice to see Joe Cronin going in there every once in a while as a pinch hitter. Verging now on thirty-eight, developing an expanding midriff, Joe is still able to do at least one thing. He can hit. Ten years a manager, two in Washington, eight in Boston he can, upon second thought, do another thing: he can still manage a baseball club.—Consolidated News Features.

Pimlico To Have 12-Day Race Meet

Additional 18 Days Offered to Bowie, Laurel and Havre de Grace

BALTIMORE, June 29 (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission allocated today a twelve-day meeting to the Maryland Jockey Club to be conducted over that organization's Pimlico course from Nov. 1 through Nov. 13.

Meeting with executives of the state's four major tracks, the commission offered the additional eighteen days of racing permitted at Pimlico under Maryland's new racing laws to Bowie, Laurel and Havre de Grace to be used for a collective meeting under one management.

The three tracks have until July 15 to make arrangements for the joint meeting at Pimlico. If any one track decided not to participate, the other two tracks would be permitted to operate for the eighteen days, commission officials said.

Asked if Pimlico would be given the eighteen days if the other tracks did not want them, Commission Chairman Frank Small, Jr., said merely:

"We are practically certain that at least two tracks will get together."

Officials of Bowie and Havre de Grace after the meeting indicated they would agree to operate under a joint-management proposal for the eighteen-day period. Laurel officials withheld comment until they could contact their directors.

Small emphasized that the eighteen-day period would be conducted by one management, regardless of the number of associations participating, and said that if they were unable to agree on details, the commission would set up the necessary machinery.

Patty Berg Goes To Second Round Of Western Open

Grind of 36 Holes Today Will Provide Severe Test in Comeback

By CHARLES CHAMBERLIN

CHICAGO, June 29 (AP)—Medalist Patty Berg, after dramatically crashing into the second round of the Women's Western open with a 5 and 3 triumph over yesterday's star, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, is ready to face the severest test in her golf comeback tomorrow.

The Minneapolis redhead ousted the former two-time open winner in today's first round of match play, thirty-six holes, which will cut the field from sixteen to four, would be the most important day in her career.

"I haven't played more than eighteen holes in any one day since my auto accident eighteen months ago," Patty confessed, "and, honestly, I don't know if my knee will take the distance. Win or lose, I'll know my comeback really is a success and my tournament future assured if I can last thirty-six holes. It's my big test."

Distance may not be the only barrier to Patty, for her morning round opponent, Mary Agnes Wall, of Menominee, Mich., is one of the most capable match-play golfers in the business. If she gets into the afternoon quarter-finals, Patty again may face a top-notch Michigan star, Marjorie Roger, of Detroit. Miss Berg found her putting erratic, but she never was pressed in defeating Mrs. Hill, the Kansas City pro playing in her second tournament in five years.

Elizabeth Hicks, professional of Long Beach, Calif., the 1941 national champion who is planning to join the Spars this week; 18-year-old Catherine Fox, the English-born star of Glen Ridge, N. J.; Phyllis Otto, of Omaha, Neb., last year's runnerup in the open; and Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, Ga., a consistent challenger, were among the winners today.

Army Turns Down Vernon Stephens, Brownies Slugger

Jimmy Brown, Cardinals' Captain and Infielder, Passes Exam

St. Louis, June 29 (AP)—Vernon Stephens, the slugging shortstop, was rejected for military service today giving the St. Louis Browns another and unexpected opportunity to take advantage of his powerful hitting and emerge from the cellar.

Stephens, tied for the American League's batting lead, apparently was turned down because of the injury to his left knee, suffered last month. There was a kneecap separation that kept him in a hospital bed for several days.

Despite Stephens' .342 average, the Browns have been a hapless club, unable to build up sufficient hitting strength to capitalize on his work. The team's average as a whole is about .230 with Stephens the only player over .300.

However, the return of the chunky youngster may be a shot-in-the-arm for the Browns, who are facing an invasion of the Eastern clubs. Now that his continued help was certain, it was believed the team might get up and justify pre-season predictions of a first-division berth.

As it is, the Browns in last place are only three games out of third place.

The team also will be bolstered by George McQuinn, its fancy fielding first-baseman, who was rejected for military duty because of a back injury after an examination at Camp Lee, Va.

Although the army waived on Stephens here, it accepted another major league star, peppery Jimmy Brown, captain and infielder of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Brown planned to use the usual induction furlough to be with the team for two more weeks.

"Greatest of All Was Dazzy"

Mickey O'Neil Hopes To Catch Another Vance

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 29 (AP)—After twenty-seven years behind the bat in organized baseball, graying, weather-beaten Mickey O'Neil is still looking for a pitcher "who can toes 'em like Dazzy Vance."

"I've caught some pretty fair chunkers in my day," said the veteran catcher, who is still active for all his 45 years, "but Dazzy is the greatest I ever caught—or, for that matter, ever saw."

"Iron Mike" has touched all the bases—minors to majors and back again—and has served as battery mate for some of the game's immortals.

There was Christy Mathewson, for instance.

"Yeah, I caught Mathewson," said Mickey. "I broke into pro ball in 1916 at Alton, Ill., about the time Matty was fading out. I caught him in two games in 1917 spring training."

"He wasn't at his best then, that's true, but I saw him when he was. He was a great pitcher but Vance was faster, had more stuff."

"And I caught Burleigh Grimes, shufflin' Phil Douglas, Jess Barnes, Artie Nehf, even Walter Johnson—I still like Dazzy."

He said he hadn't caught any

Gil Dodds Cites Scripture as He Preps for Haegg

Theological Student Meets Swede in Two-Mile Race Friday

BOSTON, June 29 (AP)—Theological Student Gilbert Dodds, more widely known as Distance Runner, Gil Dodds, cited Scripture today as he jogged about and took his seminal workout on the Boston college cinders prior to leaving for Chicago where he will meet the great Gunder Haegg at two miles Friday in the first of seven special races.

The passage quoted from Matthew, Chapter Five, Verse 14, and it reads:

"And whosoever forces thee to go a mile, go with him twin."

Big-Time Boxing Hit by Scarcity Of Good Ringmen

Four Lightweights Are Only Consistent Money-Makers Available

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—If you're a fellow with a yen for steak and no points in the ration book, you know just how big-time boxing feels these days.

Gus Fan and his missus are walking around with their pockets full of fresh folding money and ready to spend it on almost any attraction that figures to turn up a few mashed noses or ballooned ears. But Uncle Sam and his Canadian cousin have put the finger on so much thumping talent of late that there just aren't enough back-busters to go 'round, and a lot of those who are left couldn't command big league prices if bingo and free dishes were thrown in.

The result is, Uncle Mike Jacobs, who used to have to comb fighters and fight managers out of his hair and practically hang them on hooks in his office, hasn't had a boxing show for almost a month and has no immediate prospects for several weeks, anyway.

What's more, the strain is beginning to tell on the Jacobs beachcombers. When there's action, there's always enough move-around money to take care of all the boys. But with Madison Square Garden playing to a summer circus, the ball parks dark as far as outdoor fights are concerned, and other cities reporting "no dice" when it comes to super-duper back-busting attractions, the panic is really on.

Four Money-Makers Around
During the past indoor season—the Garden's first million-dollar campaign—things were so good it was said you could almost put a sister act in the main event and come close to selling out. But even the sisters are gone now. They're probably joined the WAACS.

When Uncle Sam put the snatch on Joe Louis and Billy Conn, the bottom figured to drop out of the mitt market. Instead, the clouters who were left played to S.R.O., largely, as Uncle Mike explained it, "because there's plenty of dough around."

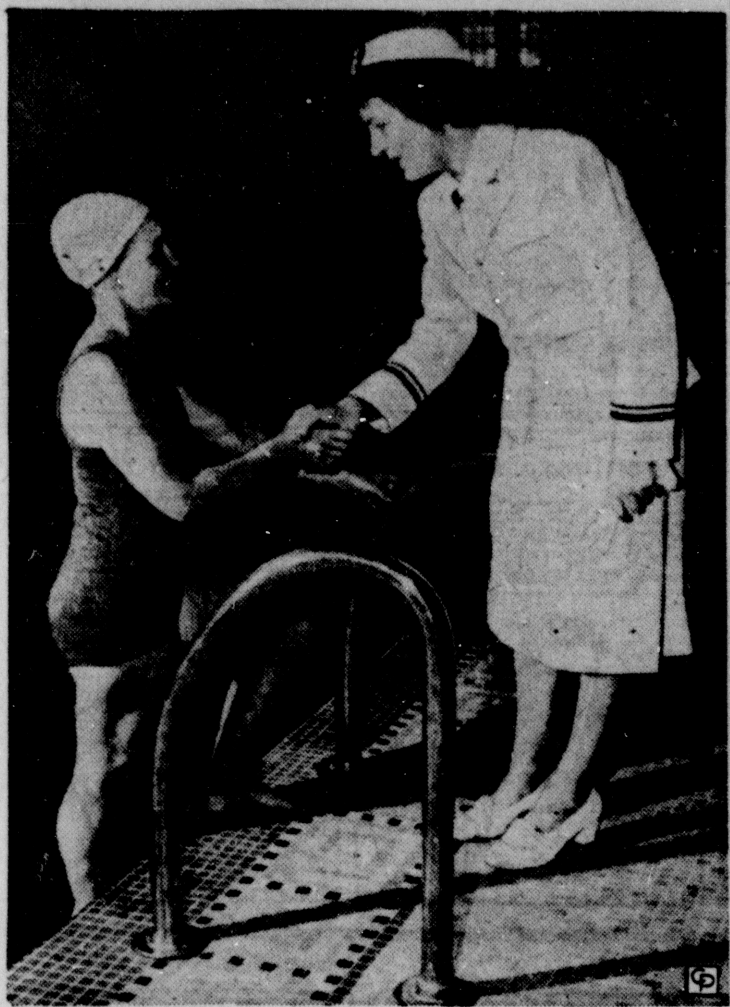

But in the past six months such swatters and gate attractions as Ray Robinson, Wee Willie Pep and Johnny Greco also have gone to war, and as a result, there are only four consistent money-makers still available. They're all lightweights—Bob Montgomery, Henry Armstrong, Sammy Angott and Beau Jack. You might possibly add fearless Fritz Zivic, old Chalky Wright and, among the big boys, Jimmy Blivins and Lee Savold, to the list—and that's the works.

Greco Can't Fight

Now, no one knows better than Mike that even the customers would get a little weary of watching the same performances week after week. In addition, Armstrong has a torn mouth—a little memento of his recent fuss with Angott—and will be sitting the walnuts out for six weeks, and Angott has a hand that's acting up. So about the only thing that can be counted on for this summer is that Montgomery and Jack probably will stage a return go for the lightweight title (New York version), which Bobcat Bob took from the jumping Jack a few weeks back.

From a point of view of raw ma-

Palumbo Sparkles At Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., June 29 (AP)—Jockey Sammy Palumbo, veteran small track rider, turned in a sparkling saddle effort today to bring T. Leatherbury's Plain Bill home in the fifth race at Charles Town. The purse event topped today's racing program.

Plain Bill handed a half-event defeat to Mrs. L. M. Hanson's Bart O'War after the crowd had made this pair almost equal choices in the test of about four and a half furlongs.

Plain Bill came off the pace made by Bart O'War and withstood a long drive to win in approved going away fashion. Precise closed willingly along the rail to be third in the group of eight.

The winner returned $5.20 for a $2 ticket and was clocked in 31. Short-priced horses figured in a $15.20 daily double payoff. L. S. Stewart's Laugh and Play won the first race and John Foster's Saint Pyrewick took the second.

The weasel eats the brains and blood of victims, leaving the flesh untouched.

terial, the war has left boxing looking like your victory garden after the neighbor's chickens get through with it.

Uncle Mike insists there are youngsters around who'll take the place of boys in service. One of those he expected to keep the box office busy was Private Johnny Greco, of the Canadian army. But the army officials up there turned thumbs down on Johnny doing any more punch-throwing.

Most of the youngsters, moreover, are still on the way up and it isn't likely Gus Fan will dig too deep into the "sock" to see them—not at current prices, anyway.

John King, Foe Of Southpaws, Is After Axis Now

One of Most Colorful Players, Umpires Buys $100,000 in Bonds

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

LUBBOCK, Tex., June 29 (AP)—Fabulous old John King, rated by no less an authority than President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas League as the most colorful player and umpire of all time, just can't keep out of the public prints although he checked his baseball career to retire to the life of a country squire ten years ago.

John has just put the squeeze on the Axis with the purchase of $100,000 in war bonds, and if Hitler, Tojo or Mussolini is a left hander, King will be doubly pleased to get in that whack for his country. Because left-handers to old John King are what the asp was to Cleopatra.

Natural-Born Showman
While King was a fine ball player in his own right, he was known mostly for his aversion to the fellows who threw a baseball from the port side.

They say John still contends that of all the casualties in World War No. 1, not a single left-hander was included.

His anathema to southpaws reportedly came because of King's inability to hit them, and they say that's why he didn't go to the big leagues. But Gardner declares such was not the case—that it all came about because King was a natural-born showman who knew how to get the fans' interest.

"Old John probably couldn't hit left-handers as well as right-handers," Gardner said, "but he was a good ball player and would have gone to the majors had it not been for World War 1."

"He was over there two years, serving in the army of occupation after the war, and the lay-off came just at the time he was ripe to go up. He played ball after that but had missed his chance at the big time."

King was in baseball fifteen years and was a 300 or better hitter. He was tall and fast and was the Ty Cobb sort of player—a hard, reckless base-runner and a deer in the outfield. His biggest season was in 1927 when he was voted the most valuable player in the old Western Association.

Made Fortune in Oil

John retired as a player in 1930 and took up umpiring. Then came the East Texas oil boom of 1932 which netted King a fortune from royalty rights. He still holds valuable oil property in the productive East Texas fields.

John quit umpiring regularly but just couldn't stay away from the game. He got in some work between handling business deals. Gardner carried him on the Texas League staff, although John refused to accept any pay. He was likely to show up at Dallas, Houston, Beaumont or any other Texas League city any time and start calling them from behind the plate.

In 1939 he moved to a farm near where he built a spacious home patterned after Tara of "Gone With the Wind." His wife designed the home, one of the sections finest residences.

Now 52 years old, King divides his time between supervision of the work on his 400-acre farm and recreation with his wife and 11-year-old son. Still a baseball lover, King will readily talk about the sport although a bit reluctant to discuss his attitude toward left-handers. His only comment is a half-grinning, "Well, I suppose they were about my biggest weaknesses."

Sears, Son of National Umpire, Stars as Rookie with Yankees

Ken Sears and his dad, Umpire "Ziggie"

By WALTER L. JOHNS

Central Press Sports Editor
Competing against such established veterans as Bill Dickey and Rolfe Hemsley isn't an easy task for a rookie.

But husky Kenneth Eugene Sears, third member of the New York Yankee receiving staff, has faced such competition all season and, has emerged as one of the rookie stars of the season.

Son of John William (Ziggie) Sears, National League umpire, Ken Sears had to wait his turn behind the plate. But when it came, he delivered in grand style.

A leg injury forced the veteran Dickey to the sidelines just when he was enjoying a big year at the bat. This gave Sears his chance.

The promising Yankee catcher is a former University of Alabama student where he played football and baseball. He landed a berth in the Yankee chain, with Kansas City, and then moved to Newark.

The Yanks purchased him from Newark and took him to training camp in 1942 only to ship him back to the Kansas City Blues. With the American Association club last year Sears hit .280 and drove in fifty-six runs.

A homer hitter since he first played baseball, Sears banged out thirteen round trippers for the Blues last year.

BOISE, Ida., June 29 (AP)—A couple of letters received by the Idaho State Fish and Game Commission tell their own story.

First came a note from a sailor in the Southwest Pacific who wanted to know the size of the largest cougar ever killed in Idaho.

A few days later another letter arrived from another sailor, also in the Southwest Pacific. It said:

"In answer to a letter that was sent you a few days ago concerning the length of a cougar, I wish you would do me a favor and tell them it was sixteen feet from tip of nose to tip of tail.

"It would kind of help me out and nothing more would be said about it."

The game department told the truth. The Idaho champion cougar measured ten feet.

Major Leagues Will Celebrate "War Relief Day"

Extravagant Plans Are Made To Make Campaign Successful

By JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—Baseball, usually disdainful of ballyhoo, is blowing its own horn finally to awaken fans to tomorrow's big "War Relief Day" in the major leagues.

This is the first of two days designated by Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis on which all clubs will turn over their entire receipts to the National War Fund and extraneous plans have been made to make it successful.

Tomorrow marks the opening of another East-West series in both the National and American Leagues, making the games themselves or more than average interest, but the magnates have dressed up these attractions with gaudy trimmings.

Every club will present either a doubleheader or a twilight or night game, or a combination of these, and most of them will have additional pageantry on the program.

In the National League, St. Louis at New York, Cincinnati at Brooklyn and Chicago at Boston are doubleheaders and Pittsburgh at Philadelphia is a night game.

Ticket Campaigns Staged
In the American League, New York at Cleveland, Washington at Chicago and Philadelphia at St. Louis at night games and Boston at Detroit is a twilight attraction.

Ticket campaigns have been under way in all these cities for several days with fans being urged to buy tickets for servicemen if they cannot attend themselves. In this connection, Boston arranged the most novel stunt—having an airplane fly over Boston Common today and drop several hundred tickets with notes asking that they be presented to soldiers and sailors.

At Brooklyn, the fans will see a field meet between players of the Dodgers and Red Sox teams. Al Schacht's comedy act, and parading by American Legion drum corps. In addition Dixie Walker, the Brooklyn fan's favorite ball player, will sing one or more songs.

A field meet—running, throwing, batting and catching—also will match members of the fleet St. Louis Cardinals and the Giants at the Polo Grounds.

The game at Philadelphia will be preceded by a concert by the Navy band.

At Chicago a combined team of White Sox and Senators, with Ossie Bluege managing and Lefty Gomez pitching, will play Mickey Cochran's Great Lake Naval Training Station team in a twilight tussle before the regular Washington-Chicago game under the floodlights.

O'Neill To Race Cronin
In St. Louis, the Lambert Field Navy Wings will play the Army's Jefferson Barracks nine in a pre-

FOR THE GAME'S SAKE

By LAWRENCE PERRY

NEW YORK, June 29.—If it isn't one thing in Philadelphia it is another, so far as the major movie houses of the city on the Schuylkill are concerned. To specify, if it isn't the Phillies it's the Athletics and vice versa. One or the other is always winning a bunch of games and climbing toward the top with the result that when night games are played the good burghers go to a ball game instead of to film shows. It is really a situation in the amusement field that calls for sympathy.

When the Phillies were plodding along in the cellar or near it year after year they were no complication at all. Only the Athletics were on hand to call for nocturnal patronage and—until the current season—the call was not sufficiently potent to bother the local film interests. But now, as already said, one or the other ups and does things and the wild-eyed public piles into the ball park in which the current attraction lies. All of which is to the extreme disadvantage of exhibitors of Judy Garland, Bob Hope, Jean Arthur and other female and male luminaries currently bidding for favor in William Penn's domain.

The Phillies, in other words, are making money and so are the Athletics which have the advantage of owning the smallest payroll in the league. As a matter of fact, this war has not meant as great disaster to the big league clubs as was thought would be the case.

If Washington keeps on going it may turn in its greatest total for home game attendance in the history of the club, and where other clubs note decreased patronage they have the compensating satisfaction of saving through the partial elimination of de luxe railroad transportation, replacement of high-priced stars—in the national service—by more modestly demanding veterans, or recruits from the minor leagues and so forth.

Speaking of absenteees of stellar magnitude Clyde Milan's assertion that Babe Ruth in his prime and playing today, or were Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio active in the game, any one of them alone could win a pennant for any club.

Liminary to the Browns-Athletics attraction. The service game will bring together George Sisler's sons, Dick and George, Jr., on opposing teams.

The Cleveland game will be preceded by a parade of navy, coast guard, air cadets and WAACS with a company drill by military policemen and a display of armored equipment.

Detroit will have a field meet between members of the Tigers and Red Sox and perhaps the funniest stunt of all—a race between managers Steve O'Neill and Joe Cronin, each blindfolded and pushing a wheelbarrow from second base to the home plate. A $25 war bond will be presented to whoever moves in the most direct line.

The clubs which are away from home tomorrow will have their turn to produce relief shows in their own parks July 28.

in the American League, was a strikingly keen observation. It still holds even though the comeliness of pitchers in the past two months or so is beginning to wane as batters are thawing out from those frigid weeks of spring training in northern climes.

Who was it who said some time ago that the pitchers of both leagues—most of them anyway—were turning in results far beyond their merits as pitchers? It was a sage observation and in many cases still holds good. But a glance at those bleak nine days dating from June 14 when not a single Yankee hurler finished a game and twenty were offered up to opposing batters by the dismayed and desperate Joe McCarthy and an additional glance at the Dodger pitching situation and mound troubles in other quarters—in brief, a glance almost anywhere—offering convincing evidence that the old war club is returning to prominence.

Incidentally, those tears that were shed some time ago about the even-Stephen chance of the Red Sox finishing in the cellar appear to have been wasted. It's nice to see Joe Cronin going in there every once in a while as a pinch hitter. Verging now on thirty-eight, he is still able to do at least one thing. He can hit. Ten years a manager, two in Washington, eight in Boston he can, upon second thought, do another thing: he can still manage a baseball club.—Consolidated News Features.

Pimlico To Have 12-Day Race Meet

Additional 18 Days Offered To Bowie, Laurel and Havre de Grace

BALTIMORE, June 29.—(AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission allocated today a twelve-day meeting to the Maryland Jockey Club to be conducted over that organization's Pimlico course from Nov. 1 through Nov. 13.

Meeting with executives of the state's four major tracks, the commission offered the additional eighteen days of racing permitted at Pimlico under Maryland's new racing laws to Bowie, Laurel and Havre de Grace to be used for a collective meeting under one management.

The three tracks have until July 15 to make arrangements for the joint meeting at Pimlico. If any one track decided not to participate, the other two tracks would be permitted to operate for the eighteen days, commission officials said.

Asked if Pimlico would be given the eighteen days if the other tracks did not want them, Commission Chairman Frank Small, Jr., said merely:

"We are practically certain that at least two tracks will get together."

Officials of Bowie and Havre de Grace after the meeting indicated they would agree to operate under a joint-management proposal for the eighteen-day period. Laurel officials withheld comment until they could contact their directors.

Small emphasized that the eighteen-day period would be conducted by one management, regardless of the number of associations participating, and said that if they were unable to agree on details, the commission would set up the necessary machinery.

Grind of 36 Holes Today Will Provide Severe Test in Comeback

By CHARLES CHAMBERLIN

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—Medalist Patty Berg, after dramatically crashing into the second round of the Women's Western open with a 5 and 3 triumph over yesterday's star, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, is ready to face the severest test in her golf comeback tomorrow.

The Minneapolis redhead ousted the former two-time open winner in today's first round of match play, then said that tomorrow's grind of thirty-six holes, which will cut the field from sixteen to four, would be the most important day in her career.

"I haven't played more than eighteen holes in any one day since my auto accident eighteen months ago," Patty confided, "and, honestly, I don't know if my knee will take the distance. Win or lose, I'll know my comeback really is a success and my tournament future assured if I can last thirty-six holes. It's my big test."

Distance may not be the only barrier to Patty, for her morning round opponent, Mary Agnes Wall, of Menominee, Mich., is one of the most capable match-play golfers in the business. If she gets into the afternoon quarter-finals, Patty again may face a top-notch Michigan star, Marjorie Row of Detroit.

Miss Berg found her putting erratic, but she never was pressed in defeating Mrs. Hill, the Kansas City pro playing in her second tournament in five years.

Elizabeth Hicks, professional of Long Beach, Calif., the 1941 national champion who is planning to join the Spars this week; 18-year-old Catherine Fox, the English-born star of Glen Ridge, N. J.; Phyllis Otto, of Omaha, Neb., last year's runnerup in the open; and Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, Ga., a consistent challenger, were among the winners today.

Army Turns Down Vernon Stephens, Brownies Slugger

Jimmy Brown, Cardinals' Captain and Infielder, Passes Exam

St. Louis, June 29.—(AP)—Vernon Stephens, the slugging shortstop, was rejected for military service today giving the St. Louis Browns another and unexpected opportunity to take advantage of his powerful hitting and emerge from the cellar.

Stephens, tied for the American League's batting lead, apparently was turned down because of the injury to his left knee, suffered last month. There was a kneecap separation that kept him in a hospital bed for several days.

Despite Stephens' .342 average, the Browns have been a hapless club, unable to build up sufficient hitting strength to capitalize on his work. The team's average as a whole is about .230 with Stephens the only player over .300.

However, the return of the chunky youngster may be a shot-in-the-arm for the Browns, who are facing an invasion of the Eastern clubs. Now that his continued help was certain, it was believed the team might get up and justify pre-season predictions of a first-division berth.

As it is, the Browns in last place are only three games out of third place.

The team also will be bolstered by George McQuinn, its fancy fielding first-baseman, who was rejected for military duty because of a back injury after an examination at Camp Lee, Va.

Although the army waived on Stephens here, it accepted another major league star, peppery Jimmy Brown, captain and infielder of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Brown planned to use the usual induction furlough to be with the team for two more weeks.

"Greatest of All Was Dazzy"

Mickey O'Neil Hopes To Catch Another Vance

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 29.—(AP)—After twenty-seven years behind the bat in organized baseball, graying, weather-beaten Mickey O'Neil is still looking for a pitcher "who can toss 'em like Dazzy Vance."

"I've caught some pretty fair chinkers in my day," said the veteran catcher, who is still active for all his 45 years, "but Dazzy is the greatest I ever caught—or, for that matter, ever saw."

"Iron Mike" has touched all the bases—minors to majors and back again—and has served as battery mate for some of the game's immortals.

There was Christy Mathewson, for instance.

"Yeah, I caught Mathewson," said Mickey. "I broke into pro ball in 1916 at Alton, Ill., about the time Matty was fading out. I caught him in two games in 1917 spring training."

"He wasn't at his best then, that's true, but I saw him when he was. He was a great pitcher but Vance was faster, had more stuff."

"And I caught Burleigh Grimes, shufflin' Phil Douglas, Jess Barnes, Artie Nehf, even Walter Johnson—I still like Dazzy."

He said he hadn't caught any

MICKEY O'NEIL Behind the Bat 27 Years

moderns like Grove, Dean and Feller but had batted against some of them. "Pitchers today are as good as they ever were," O'Neil opined, "generally speaking, that is."

O'Neil was with the Giants three different times, played with the Braves seven years, was at Brooklyn under Wilbur Robinson.

Now he's holding forth with the Memphis Chicks in the Southern association—the wonder of the league.

He has caught practically all of his team's games this year, including several double-headers. He's made only one error and is batting above .300.

He declares he's good for the duration.

Gil Dodds Cites Scripture as He Preps for Haegg

Theological Student Meets Swede in Two-Mile Race Friday

BOSTON, June 29.—(AP)—Theological Student Gilbert Dodds, more widely known as Distance Runner Gil Dodds, cited Scripture today as he jogged about and took his semi-final workout on the Boston college cinders prior to leaving for Chicago where he will meet the great Gunder Haegg at two miles Friday in the first of seven special races.

The passage quoted from Matthew, Chapter Five, Verse 14, and it reads:

"And whosoever forces thee to go a mile, go with him twin."

Dodds grinned as he explained that those words from the Sermon in the Mount fitted his case to a "T" for he hasn't run two miles in serious competition since the indoor season of 1941-'42.

"I don't know how I'll come out in this race," the bespectacled athlete said, "but anyhow I'm going to have a good time. After all, it's just another race."

He was asked what his best time for the two-mile trek was and what he thought he could run it in Friday. Again he was very careful about making a prediction.

"I don't know what I can do," he said as his spontaneous smile broke through again, "but my best time is 8:53 and on that occasion Greg Rice beat me by two-tenths of a second. That's not in Haegg's class, you know."

The Boston youth, National A. A. U. outdoor mile champion, will work out briefly tomorrow morning and upon arrival at Chicago will do little more than "shake the wrinkles" out of his legs before he meets Gunder Haegg for the first time.

Big-Time Boxing Hit by Scarcity Of Good Ringmen

Four Lightweights Are Only Consistent Money-
Makers Available

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—If you're a fellow with a yen for steak and no points in the ration book you know just how big-time boxing feels these days.

Gus Pan and his missus are walking around with their pockets full of fresh folding money and ready to spend it on almost any attraction that figures to turn up a few mashed noses or ballooned ears. But Uncle Sam and his Canadian cousin have put the finger on so much thumping talent of late that there just aren't enough back-busters to go 'round, and a lot of those who are left couldn't command big league prices if bingo and free dishes were thrown in.

The result is, Uncle Mike Jacobs, who used to have to comb fighters and fight managers out of his hair and practically hang them on hooks in his office, hasn't had a boxing show for almost a month and has no immediate prospects for several weeks, anyway.

What's more, the strain is beginning to tell on the Jacobs beachcombers. When there's action, there's always enough move-around money to take care of all the boys. But with Madison Square Garden playing to a summer circus, the ball parks dark as far as outdoor fights are concerned, and other cities reporting "no dice" when it comes to super-duper back-busting attractions, the panic is really on.

Four Money-Makers Around
During the past indoor season—the Garden's first million-dollar campaign—things were so good it was said you could almost put a sister act in the main event and come close to selling out. But even the sisters are gone now. They're probably joined the WAACS.

When Uncle Sam put the snatch on Joe Louis and Billy Conn, the bottom figured to drop out of the mitt market. Instead, the clouters who were left played to S.R.O. largely, as Uncle Mike explained it, "because there's plenty of dough around."

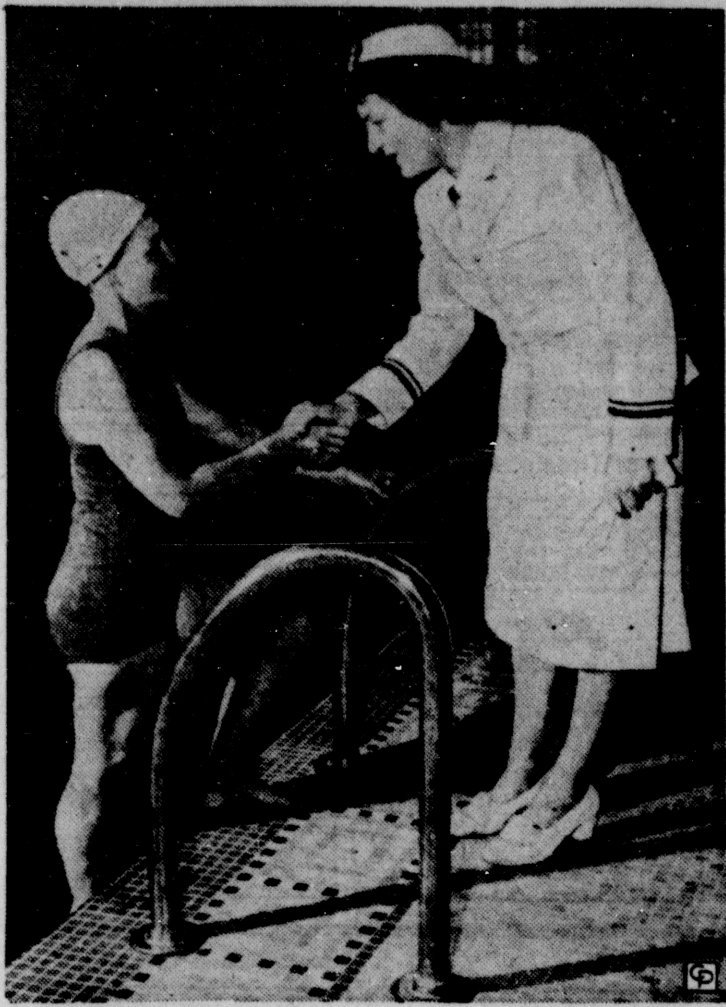

But in the past six months such swatters and gate attractions as Ray Robinson, Wee Willie Pae and Johnny Greco also have gone to war, and as a result, there are only four consistent money-makers still available. They're all lightweights—Bob Montgomery, Henry Armstrong, Sammy Angott and Beau Jack. You might possibly add fearless Fritz Zivic, old Chalky Wright and, among the big boys, Jimmy Blvin and Lee Savold, to the list—and that's the works.

Greco Can't Fight

Now, no one knows better than Mike that even the customers would get a little weary of watching the same performances week after week. In addition, Armstrong has a torn mouth—a little memento of his recent fust with Angott—and will be sitting the walnuts out for six weeks, and Angott has a hand that's acting up. So about the only thing that can be counted on for this summer is that Montgomery and Jack probably will stage a return go for the lightweight title (New York version), which Bobcat Bob took from the Jumping Jack a few weeks back.

Palumbo Sparkles At Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., June 29 (AP)—Jockey Sammy Palumbo, veteran small track rider, turned in a sparkling saddle effort today to bring T. Leatherbury's Plain Bill home in the fifth race at Charles Town. The purse event topped today's racing program.

Plain Bill handed a half-event defeat to Mrs. L. M. Hanson's Bart O'War after the crowd had made this pair almost equal choices in the test of about four and a half furlongs.

Plain Bill came from off the pace made by Bart O'War and withstood a long drive to win in approved going away fashion. Precise closed willingly along the rail to be third in the group of eight.

The winner returned $5.20 for a $2 ticket and was clocked in .51. Short-priced horses figured in a $15.20 daily double payoff. L. S. Stewart's Laugh and Play won the first race and John Foster's Saint Pyrewick took the second.

The weasel eats the brains and blood of victims, leaving the flesh untouched.

terial, the war has left boxing looking like your victory garden after the neighbor's chickens get through with it.

Uncle Mike insists there are youngsters around who'll take the place of boys in service. One of those he expected to keep the box office busy was Private Johnny Greco, of the Canadian army. But the army officials up there turned thumbs down on Johnny doing any more punch-throwing.

Most of the youngsters, moreover, are still on the way up and it isn't likely Gus Pan will dig too deep into the 'socks' to see them—not at current prices, anyway.

John King, Foe Of Southpaws, Is After Axis Now

One of Most Colorful Players, Umpires Buys
$100,000 in Bonds

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

LUBBOCK, Tex., June 29 (AP)—Fabulous old John King, rated by no less an authority than President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas League as the most colorful player and umpire of all time, just can't keep out of the public prints although he chucked his baseball career to retire to the life of a country squire ten years ago.

John has just put the squeeze on the Axis with the purchase of $100,000 in war bonds, and if Hitler, Tojo or Mussolini is a left hander, King will be doubly pleased to get in that whack for his country. Because left-handers to old John King are what the asp was to Cleopatra.

Natural-Born Showman

While King was a fine ball player in his own right, he was known mostly for his aversion to the fellows who threw a baseball from the port side.

They say King still contends that of all the casualties in World War No. 1, not a single left-hander was included.

His anathema to southpaws reportedly came because of King's inability to hit them, and they say that's why he didn't go to the big leagues. But Gardner declares such was not the case—that it all came about because King was a natural-born showman who knew how to get the fans' interest.

"Old John probably couldn't hit left-handers as well as right-handers," Gardner said, "but he was a good ball player and would have gone to the majors had it not been for World War 1."

"He was over there two years, serving in the army of occupation after the war, and the lay-off came just at the time he was ripe to go up. He played ball after that but had missed his chance at the big time."

King was in baseball fifteen years and was a 300 or better hitter. He was tall and fast and was the Ty Cobb sort of player—a hard, reckless base-runner and a deer in the outfield. His biggest season was in 1927 when he was voted the most valuable player in the old Western Association.

Made Fortune in Oil

John retired as a player in 1930 and took up umpiring. Then came the East Texas oil boom of 1932 which netted King a fortune from royalty rights. He still holds valuable oil property in the productive East Texas fields.

John quit umpiring regularly but just couldn't stay away from the game. He got in some work between handling business deals. Gardner carried him on the Texas League, staff, although John refused to accept any pay. He was likely to show up at Dallas, Houston, Beaumont or any other Texas League city any time and start calling them any time and start calling them any time.

In 1939 he moved to a farm near where he built a spacious home patterned after Tara of "Gone With the Wind." His wife designed the home, one of the sections finest residences.

Now 52 years old, King divides his time between supervision of the work on his 400-acre farm and recreation with his wife and 11-year-old son. Still a baseball lover, King will readily talk about the sport although a bit reluctant to discuss his attitude toward left-handers. His only comment is a half-grinning, "Well, I suppose they were about my biggest weakness."

Sears, Son of National Umpire, Stars as Rookie with Yankees

Ken Sears and his dad, Umpire "Ziggy"

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor
Competing against such established veterans as Bill Dickey and Rolie Hemslay isn't an easy task for a rookie.

But husky Kenneth Eugene Sears, third member of the New York Yankee receiving staff, has faced such competition all season and, has emerged as one of the rookie stars of the season.

Son of John William (Ziggy) Sears, National League umpire, Ken Sears had to wait his turn behind the plate. But when it came, he delivered in grand style.

A leg injury forced the veteran Dickey to the sidelines just when he was enjoying a big year at the bat. This gave Sears his chance.

The promising Yank catcher is a former University of Alabama student where he played football and baseball. He landed a berth in the Yankee chain, with Kansas City, and then moved to Newark.

The Yanks purchased him from Newark and took him to training camp in 1942 only to ship him back to the Kansas City Blues. With the American Association club last year Sears hit .290 and drove in fifty-six runs.

A homer hitter since he first played baseball, Sears banged out thirteen round trippers for the Blues last year.

Baseball men like Sears as a hitter and as a catcher. They point out one of his faults as a receiver, however, and that is throwing to bases.

Sears is six feet tall and weighs 200 pounds. He was born at Streator, Ill., in 1918. He lives in Fort Worth, Tex.

His father, an umpire in the National loop since 1934, is a former Texas League player.

Sears, Sr., played left field for Fort Worth for several years, helping the Cats win six Texas league flags. He turned to umpiring in that loop when his legs began to bother him and was appointed to the major leagues in July, 1934.

The senior Sears was born at Central City, Ky., in January, 1892.

Didn't Stretch It Even for a Sailor

BOISE, Ida., June 29 (AP)—A couple of letters received by the Idaho State Fish and Game Commission tell their own story.

First came a note from a sailor in the Southwest Pacific who wanted to know the size of the largest cougar ever killed in Idaho.

A few days later another letter arrived from another sailor, also in the Southwest Pacific. It said:

"In answer to a letter that was sent you a few days ago concerning the length of a cougar, I wish you would do me a favor and tell them it was sixteen feet from tip of nose to tip of tail."

"It would kind of help me out and nothing more would be said about it."

The game department told the truth. The Idaho champion cougar measured ten feet.

Yale Golfer Seeks NCAA Tourney Title

CHICAGO, June 29 (AP)—Yale university, which scored a surprise team triumph yesterday in the forty-sixth National Collegiate golf tournament, advanced today into position to sweep individual honors as well.

Richard Kuntz, of Larchmont, N. Y., set the stage when he gained the semi-finals of the top bracket by defeating Robert Fife, of Michigan, 5 and 3. Walter Backford, of Greenwich, Conn., then came through in the lower bracket, beating out James Stewart, of Northwestern, at the eighteenth hole, one up.

To gain tomorrow afternoon's eighteen hole finals, they must dispose of a pair of marines—redheaded Bill Roden, of Texas, and Wally Ulrich, of Carleton college, each of whom will report for duty with the marines at the conclusion of the tournament.

Both Roden and Ulrich showed today they were plenty tough.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPE

All-Season Radishes in the Victory Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Radishes are not particular as to soil. They do grow better, however, with the addition of a quick-acting fertilizer. To be of good quality radishes must be grown quickly and also they must not be overgrown. Seeds can be sown out-of-doors from April to September. While radishes are considered the easiest and quickest vegetable to grow, during the hot months they grow slowly, get stringy and strong flavored unless protected with a light shade such as cheesecloth will afford when used as a covering.

Formerly most home gardeners only grew the early round varieties of radishes, but today there are many types to choose from, round, oval and long varieties. Illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph is Red Rocket, a popular oval variety. Its color is a deep scarlet, and the flesh is crisp and mild flavored. Each year more gardeners are becoming acquainted with the winter varieties of radishes. These winter radishes grow to enormous size. They can be eaten raw or cooked like turnips. Illustrated in the Garden-Graph is the Long Black Spanish radish which is white inside, with flesh which is solid, crisp and pungent in flavor.

The winter radishes take two to three months to mature. They will keep all winter if stored in a cool cellar. Other winter varieties of radishes include White Russian, Chinese Scarlet, Deep Scarlet oval and long varieties. Illustrated

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

BEWARE FOUR TRUMPS
WHEN THERE are six trumps held against you by the defenders you are usually safer if your seven-trump holding consists of five in one hand opposite two in the other than if it is made up of four opposite three. In case you have to ruff a trick in the hand with the longer holding, you are in great danger if this leaves you only three cards there, as one defender is quite likely then to hold a string of four, more than you do. But if you had a five-card suit, you still retain four after the ruff and may be able to drop the hostile ones.

With the defenders' hearts and spades divided in the most likely way, four in one hand and two in the other, the worst bidding in those three sequences above gets properly penalized. That is the No. 1 sequence. Two diamond tricks by the defense, followed by a third diamond, which South must ruff, will reduce the declarer to three spades. He also must lose a club and a spade, so is down one.

Better bidding is that in No. 2, where North shows preference for hearts, knowing the side has the same number of hearts as spades, seven, but also that the hearts are five cards long from the suit having been bid first, so that the declarer may be able to stand a ruff. He makes his contract against any defense, with loss of two diamonds and a club.

Still better is that in Table 3, encouraging No Trumps if diamonds are stopped, but getting into the proper 4-Hearts anyway.

North Carolina Labor Cannot Be Solicited

RALEIGH, N. C., June 29 (AP)—Gov. J. M. Broughton says that the highway patrol has been ordered to arrest any persons soliciting labor from North Carolina. The governor said that Maryland and Virginia producers had "pirated" several hundred transient laborers from Eastern North Carolina, where there is a labor shortage.

Solicitation of labor in North Carolina without purchase of a license is punishable by a $500 fine.

Survey on Water of Waste Will Start Within Ten Days

Inspection To Cover 84 Miles of Main and Conduit from Lake Gordon

Cumberland's fourth water waste survey in thirty years is expected to be started within the next ten days. William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, announced yesterday.

The survey will be conducted by the Pitometer Company, engineers, of New York City, the same firm that had charge of the work here in 1913, 1921 and 1936.

Purposes of Survey
According to Edwards the survey will cover:

1. A measurement of the total consumption of water by the city for a period of twenty-four hours.
2. A division of the system into districts and a measurement of the water consumption in each for a period of twenty-four hours.
3. Further investigation in all districts where excessive waste was indicated by the Pitometer for the purpose of locating all underground leaks in the mains and services.
4. Tests for accuracy of all meters larger than three inches in diameter in place, under normal conditions without removal; and tests of larger consumers for the purpose of detecting illegal use through fire lines or otherwise.

Edwards stated that the survey will include eight and one-half miles of thirty-six inch concrete lock joint pipe and cast iron pipe from the filter plant at Lake Gordon to the Fort Hill reservoir, and eighty-four miles of distribution main ranging in size from thirty-six to four inches.

When the last survey was made here seven years ago there was seventy-seven miles of distribution main. Since 1936, however, seven more miles of main have been added to the city system, including the three-mile cross-town water line.

1936 Figures Given
A summary of the 1936 survey showed that the total consumption of the entire city was 8,564,000 gallons a day. The underground leakage at that time was estimated at 1,167,000 gallons a day and the estimated house waste was 279,000 gallons a day. It was also revealed that a loss of 200,000 gallons a day was located on the supply main from Lake Gordon.

The Pitometer company's report also indicated that the daily loss from slow and stopped meters was conservatively calculated to be $24 a day. This would result in an annual loss of $8,760. The total savings annually as a result of the survey was estimated at $17,860.

Printers Correct Statement of CIO

Typos Offered Assistance but Did Not Seek Affiliation, Shaner Says

A recent news item appearing in the local press to the effect that Cumberland Typographical Union No. 244 is affiliated with the Western Maryland CIO Industrial Union Council is a misstatement, according to W. R. Shaner, president.

Shaner points out that at a meeting of Local No. 244, Sunday, June 6, W. Henry Frazier and C. Raymond Weatherholt were named as fraternal delegates to the CIO council.

In a letter to John Neal, secretary of the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council, dated June 7, Shaner said that it was clearly stated that Local 244, ever mindful of the need for solidarity in the ranks of labor, was appreciative of the opportunity to have representatives deliberate with members of the council, and "we hope that our spokesmen will be instrumental in assisting our co-operating unions in the field of organization or other union activities."

The letter, signed by C. A. Barringer, secretary, further stated that "although we are classed as an independent union, we are first, last and always a bona fide trade union, and we stand ready to do our part to promote peace and harmony in the union labor movement in the state and nation."

There was nothing said relative to Local 244 becoming affiliated with the CIO union council.

Local 244 of the International Typographical Union formerly was affiliated with the A. F. of L. Ties, however, were severed with the A. F. L. when the Typos refused to pay an assessment which they termed as being "unfair."

Cook, and the proceeds divided share-and-share-alike among the six sons, John Edward, Harvey M., Howard R., George C., James Earl and Walter M. Cook.

Gateway Charter

Occasionally into the usual conglomeration of facts, figures and fancies that run their mad circuit through the newspaper plant... comes a good dash of cold verbiage from a soldier.

The soldier never expects his words to go beyond the comprehension of his addressee as he writes as he feels, or as he believes the men around him feel... he never expects to be made the subject of a story. That is the reason Chatter chooses his words... unaffected, natural, void of any shellacked sophistication, full of keen appreciation and an inherent joy in the life he is leading... for the assurance they pack and the picture they give.

"After two weeks in the hinterlands of Georgia, living in tents and washing in a muddy stream that runs in a ditch, I'm willing to admit that anything can happen and everything usually does," a Cumberland soldier writes.

"The contrast between the two offices—the one I used to work in and the one I'm working in now—is so great that I often have a good laugh to myself about the whole thing. But I really can't complain for it packs plenty of excitement and no little bit of fun.

"In the fifty-foot walk from my tent which, incidentally is also the home of five other soldiers, I may see two or three squirrels scurry up a tree to get out of my way or a chameleon or two skid from the clearing into a nearby thicket, or I may be forced to beat a hasty retreat in favor of a twenty-five or thirty inch snake that is stretched out in the patch enjoying the heat of the morning sun.

"Besides the reptiles that live in with us we frequently play host to a party of wild hogs that venture into our area from the pine forest... It's a rugged life that we are living here, but it's a fascinating one, and I doubt if there's a man in the outfit who would want to return to Camp Stewart with all its modern conveniences.

"There is a freedom that goes with living in with nature and most of the fellows have learned to appreciate it although you would wonder why if you were to drop in some evening around 5 o'clock and see a line of dirty, grimy soldiers standing waiting their turn to get one of the five places along the ditches where holes have been dug so the men can wash their faces and shave.

"Except for the fortunate few who are able to get passes and go into the town or to a little service station that has had little gas and a good supply of beer, the day ends with the last rays of sunlight. We have no electricity and it is 'verbatum' to show any light during the hours of darkness..."

"Of the many handicaps probably the greatest is caused by the mosquitoes and other insects that attack constantly. A story that is currently making the rounds is that one unit operating a searchlight tracked two mosquitos for better than two miles one night before discovering they were not bombers..."

"There are innumerable thrills and exciting moments in this army training but I think none will compare with the thrills of the infiltration course or as it is called by the soldiers, the baptism to fire. No blanks are used... it's the real thing—red hot lead—flying about thirty inches over your head as you crawl for three or four hundred yards through a choking sand dust on your belly while small land mines explode in your face and all around you as you try to work your way through a barb wire entanglement.

"... The sickening smell of powder clings in your nostrils. For a moment you feel so sick that you want to quit but that is the one time there is no way to quit. On the other side there is a trench and that is the only place you can find safety. In other words that is the end of the course... I've been over obstacle courses, run miles and made long marches, but the fourteen minutes that we spent on the infiltration course were the most exhausting of all.

"It's a tough life, but now that I'm living it, I'll have to admit that I would hate to think I had missed it nor would I want to miss the things that are still to come. It's just a little too big to be a part of it, not to be connected with it in some way."

Chatter's soldier makes no startling predictions, relays no inside information, boasts of no achievements nor does he remind the folks at home of countless duties.

Instead, he unwittingly reveals a spirit that makes Chatter sit back and say... "By George, I'd like to be with him"... or "Damn it, we're lucky he's there." Not just Chatter's soldier, but the thousands like him, who, even with the grim realization of what they are there for, can still get a whale of a kick out of a ditch for a washbowl or a mosquito blitz.

Chatter's soldier is PFC John P. Moody, who is stationed at Camp Stewart, Ga., a son of Mrs. Elizabeth Moody, of Frostburg, and a member of the Cumberland News reporter staff, before he entered the army.

Legion Announces Plans To Collect Phonograph Discs

Will Arrange with Merchants To Place Barrels or Boxes in Stores

The "More Records for Fighting Men" committee of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will confer with Cumberland merchants today in regard to the placing of barrels or boxes in local stores for the collection of old phonograph records during the second annual campaign which is scheduled to open here Saturday, July 3.

Albert M. Kerns, chairman of the local Legion committee, said that efforts also will be made to place boxes or barrels at local service stations.

Persons contributing records are asked not to donate discs of the following makes and types, which are of comparatively little value from a salvage point of view: Columbia, Brunswick, Okeh, Clarion, Harmony, Edison, Laminated, old Dictograph or Edison cylinders, paper or metal records.

The drive for old records is conducted for the purpose of obtaining shellac in order to make new records. Shellac can be recovered from certain old records while others cannot be so used. It depends on the original manufacturing process. It is not practical to recover shellac from so-called "laminated" records. Hence it is urged that "laminated" records be not collected.

The canvass that will be made here will be duplicated nationally by other of the 11,897 posts of the Legion and the 9,007 units of the auxiliary in every town and city. The campaign runs through July 31.

The American Legion realizes that our fighting men need entertainment and it is planned that they have the kind they most desire. In some cases records are the only way our boys can find relaxation and recreation at all.

A joint conference has been scheduled at the Fort Cumberland hotel July 13 at 2 p. m. and the representatives of the International Association of Machinists have been asked to present documents showing its membership among production and maintenance workers of the Kelly-Springfield Engineering Company, John Sharp, temporary president of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, announced yesterday.

Local 26 will represent all employees of the company covered by the bargaining agreement in force at the meeting, Sharp said.

A copy of the letter to Ernest C. Carlson, grand lodge representative of the IAM from Mrs. Jewell G. Briggs, field examiner of the NLRB was received by Sharp yesterday.

The conference, Sharp said, will involve only the two unions concerned, and the results will determine whether any more conferences will be necessary.

Army Officials Take Soldiers

Two Are Turned over to U. S. Authorities by Local Police

Two soldiers were turned over to United States authorities yesterday by local police. They are Howard V. Courtney, Keyser, who came out second best in a race with officer Thomas J. See, Monday evening.

The second soldier, Charles W. Davis, 105 Decatur street, was arrested yesterday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock by Officer John J. Newhouse and Sgt. Raymond R. Johnston.

A man booked as A. N. Gibson, 107 Laing avenue, is being held by police for the state's attorney's office. Gibson was arrested yesterday afternoon at 3:05 o'clock by Officers John J. Newhouse and Frank A. Shober.

Melvin Uplinger, Laing avenue, who was picked up by Officer R. N. Nuse Monday evening and turned over to county authorities on a charge of breaking his parole, was released yesterday, according to Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney.

The local man, Fletcher said, was paroled in April's circuit court on condition that he support his wife. Since a claim of non-support has been withdrawn, no charges will be preferred at this time, Fletcher said.

The stamps may be purchased at the regular postage stamp window in the post office.

Night Angler Catches Bass in Closed Season; Fined $10 and Costs

There are no restrictions on fishing at night for bass, but its rather costly to fish for bass during the closed season.

At least that's what a Kitzmiller angler learned early Sunday morning when he took a black bass twenty and a half inches in length, weighing five and one-quarter pounds, from Deep Creek lake in Garrett county.

Gary Ritter was arrested by Lloyd Cook, district warden, at 12:30 a. m. Sunday, and pleading guilty to a charge of having a black bass in his possession during a closed season. He was fined $10 and costs on Monday by Trial Magistrate H. A. Loraditch, at Oakland.

The bass season doesn't open until tomorrow in Maryland.

Lalor Will Leave For New Position

Boy Scout Executive and Wife Go to Johnson City, Tenn., Today

Raymond C. Lalor, scout executive of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, accompanied by Mrs. Lalor, will leave this evening for Johnson City, Tenn., where he will take over his new duties as scout executive of Sequoyah Council, which comprises eighty-five troops and ten cub packs in the states of Tennessee and Virginia.

A native of Richmond, Ky., Lalor came to Cumberland from Cincinnati, Ohio, May 10, 1937 when Potomac council comprised thirty-seven troops and 760 scouts. During his six years as executive here, Potomac Council has grown to forty-six troops, 1,057 scouts, three cub packs and ninety-three cubs.

Lalor's successor here is undetermined although a selection committee headed by Dr. Arthur H. Hawkins has been in contact with several persons qualified for the post within the past several weeks.

W. Donald Smith, activities chairman, will assume charge here until the appointment of a new scout executive.

WATKINS DESCRIBES CONSTRUCTION OF PERSIAN GULF ROUTE

How American contractors and engineers opened the Persian Gulf route to Russia against enormous odds was related to Rotarians yesterday at their weekly luncheon at the Central Y.M.C.A. by Joseph Watkins, of this city, employee of one of the contracting firms.

The route was successfully established through the construction of seven gulf docks and a highway connecting it with the Caspian sea.

Today, Watkins said, great quantities of supplies of all kinds are flowing into Russia over this route, including planes, tanks, guns, ammunition and motor vehicles, for which two assembly plants were erected, one of which is sending 400 vehicles daily into Russia. The aid thus given has been of material help in the Russian defense against the Germans, he said.

Watkins, a 1935 graduate of Penn Avenue high school, describes the customs and conditions of the Arabs and Persians as he came to know them. Southern Persia, he said, has been taken over by the United States Army, which has many thousands of men there and for which the route was opened. It is a hot country—reaching 143 in the shade—and too hot to work between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m.

Chief Petty Officer Lloyd Lumsden, of the navy, who arrived here Monday night to take charge of the local navy recruiting office, was introduced as a guest and told briefly of the efforts now being made by that branch. These are, chiefly, to recruit Seabees and WAVES, for whom there is great need.

New Headquarters Obtained by WAACS

New headquarters were established yesterday at 11 South Liberty street by the local recruiting staff of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. The office is the same one used by the Red Cross during its drive several months ago.
